Arbitration with Mexico Favored

SENATE BODY ACTS TO END OIL DISPUTE

Committee Votes, 13 to 3, To Report Modification Of Robinson Resolution

State Department Chief Studies Peace Plan, But Refuses to Commit Self

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—By a vote of 13 to 3, the foreign relations committee today decided to report to the senate a modification of the Robinson resolution expressing the opinion that the administration should accept arbitration of its disputes with Mexico over oil lands.

Chairman Borah, of the committee, announced the new arbitration resolution in this matter, which brought before the senate Monday and its adoption sought.

As revised, the resolution merely would express the sense of the senate for arbitration and suggest the means by which it might be accomplished.

Favorable Action Seen

The overwhelming vote for the resolution in the committee forecasts favorable action upon it in the senate.

"The substance of the original resolution is retained," said Senator Robinson, Democratic floor leader, and author of the suggestion. "As it is drawn, it will provide amply for the protection of American citizens. It also suggests arrangement for carrying out the proposal."

Only Senators McLean, Republican, Connecticut; Edge, Republican, New Jersey; and Reed, Democrat, Missouri, voted against the resolution in the committee.

Senator Borah issued the following statement:

"I think the resolution fully expresses our desire to settle the matter by arbitration. If, therefore, meets with my hearty approval. I have been an advocate of arbitration in this matter from the very beginning. The only thing involved is property. If we can't arbitrate that question, there is no use to talk long about arbitration."

Kellogg Studies Bill

Secretary of State Kellogg is studying the arbitration proposal, but so far refuses to commit himself to action. The Mexican government has not formally submitted the arbitration suggestion originally made by President Calles.

The alleged confiscatory land law, companion to the proposed petroleum law, does not permit disposition of aliens until death, in case of individuals, or for 19 years for corporations. But this government maintains mere existence of the law is prejudicial to American properties.

Other provisions of the law prohibit aliens acquiring land within 60 miles of frontiers and 30 miles of coasts, or from holding majority control in agricultural companies.

Renounce Own Government

Another provision contested by the state department requires alien property holders to renounce the protection of their own government in connection with such Mexican holdings.

Arbitration advocates urge that the dispute over this law, as well as the similar argument over the petroleum statute, be adjusted through definite arbitration or mediation or adjudication. The "A.B.C." powers of South America (Argentina, Brazil and Chile) are discussed in connection with mediation, while the present United States-Mexican General Claims commission would probably handle the claims case if adjudication were agreed to.

Renegade Tribe Gives Up, After Siege Lasting Four Months

(By United Press)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 21.—Besieged and surrounded by a superior force of federal troops, the Yaqui Indians, who have been in rebellion in Sonora, unconditionally surrendered to the Mexican government last night.

The surrender, which ended a siege in that state that lasted four months and involved at times as many as 15,000 federal soldiers, will enable the Mexican government to concentrate its troops in Jalisco, scene of the most violent rebel demonstrations, and other states, where insurrectionist movements are persisting.

The capitulation of the Yaquis was transmitted to the war department by General Manzo, federal commander in Sonora, who represented the government in the peace negotiations, which began Tuesday.

The Indians' chieftains, in making their peace overtures, told the government they were patriotic, but that they had been deceived by Adolfo de la Huerta.

Charges California Unfair

"California seeks an undue advantage over other states involved," Hayden charged.

Hayden urged that power phases of the project should be under control of the federal power commission instead of under the secretary of interior.

Hayden reiterated his belief that the bill would result in Mexico receiving without cost an enormous volume of water for irrigation.

TRI-STATE DELEGATES MEET IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—Tri-state delegates went into session here today, openly optimistic over their efforts to iron out differences between California, Arizona and Nevada, regarding the proposed boulder canyon dam.

It was predicted that an agreement on both power and royalties to be paid by California to Arizona would be effected at an early date.

Charles P. Squires, of Nevada, chairman of the conference, felt certain a satisfactory arrangement would be made. "Discussions are rapidly coming to such a point where agreement on both water and power questions may be reached at any moment," Squires said, at the conclusion of the session last night.

The meetings are being held in secret, statements being given out at the close of each session to the press.

Swing Closes Arguments For Measure in House Rules Committee

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Opponents of the Swing-Johnson Boulder dam bill resumed attack on the measure today, before the house rules committee, which is considering a resolution to give the bill preferential status in the house.

Acting Chairman Burton, Ohio, announced the committee desired to conclude the hearing today.

Representative Colton, Republican, Utah, gave the committee the resolution of his state legislature withdrawing from the Colorado river compact.

Traces History of Compact

Colton traced the history of the compact, pointing out Utah ratified both the seven-state and six-state compacts.

"The legislature of California has never ratified either compact," he said. "Yet my state is charged with assuming a vacillating attitude. The step we took was for our own protection."

Discussing legality of use of waters of the Colorado river, Colton insisted Arizona, while not a member of the compact, could use as much of the water as she desired.

Representative Swing told Colton proponents of the bill had no objection to the inclusion of an amendment protecting Utah against appropriation of waters by the lower basin states. Colton said he believed this amendment would remove some of the objections to the bill.

Representative Hayden, Democrat, Arizona, said the bill was designed to force settlement of the controversy among the seven states.

YOUNG URGES CABINET FOR CALIFORNIA

Form of Government Modeled After U. S. Sought By Executive of State

9 DEPARTMENT HEADS

Bills Providing for New System Offered in Both Branches of Legislature

(By United Press)

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 21.—Closing the first half of the 47th California legislative session with a record-breaking number of new bills, in which the Boulder dam, state reorganization, highway financing and community property legislation figured prominently, both houses moved rapidly to completion of their work today. The number of measures proposed in the two houses soared over the 2000 mark shortly after noon, with indications that the total would exceed 2500, despite Governor Young's warning to hold down the amount of legislation.

(By United Press)

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 21.—A new state cabinet for California, modeled after President Coolidge's cabinet, and composed of nine heads of departments, is proposed by Governor Young, in a series of reorganization bills introduced in the legislature today.

With the two houses scheduled to adjourn at 12 o'clock, the senate-at-large were instructed to stop the clocks at that hour, so the lawmaking bodies could legally carry on until their work was through.

In a downpour of measures that flooded the legislature in its closing hours were the bills providing for Governor Young's "cabinet," introduced by administration leaders in each house.

Purpose of Cabinet Plan

The purpose of the reorganization plan, as stated by the governor, is to bring into departmental form all related activities, and to constitute the department heads into a council to meet monthly with the governor.

The nine departments which would be included in the cabinet are the departments of agriculture, finance, institutions, education, public welfare, public works, labor and industrial relations, public health and natural resources. The latter two remain yet to be created.

"In the departments already created, certain changes will be proposed," said Governor Young. "Certain functions of the department of finance will be recommended for transfer to other departments. For instance, it will be recommended that the motor vehicle highway police be placed under the jurisdiction of the division of highways, an that the library be constituted as a new division in the department of education."

Confusion Will Clear

Promising effective co-operation with the newly-appointed state superintendent of public instruction, William John Cooper, the governor declared that the "present confusion of functions between the board of education and the superintendent would be cleared up."

Other than the change in name, there will be little difficulty in converting the present state board of health to the department of public health, it was explained.

The executive officer of the department will be known as the director of public health.

That the bills, as introduced, are in preliminary form, and may be subject to change, was indicated by the governor.

"The general plan, however," he said, "does not contemplate sweeping out of office the members of the boards now in office. In many cases, the proposed bills will expressly continue in office the members who are now serving unexpired terms."

La Barba, Clark Make Same Weight

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Fidel La Barba, world flyweight champion, will enter the ring at Madison Square garden tonight on even weight terms with his Scottish challenger, Elky Clark. Each weighed 111 1-2 pounds in the office of the state athletic commission at 2 p. m. today.

The California boxer was still a 2 to 1 favorite to retain his title. Newsboy Brown of Salt Lake City weighed 111 and Frankie Genaro, of New York, 111 1-2. They will provide the semi-final bout.

SMITH COURSE AFTER SENATE SLAP IN DOUBT

Illinoisian May Go Before Privileges, Elections Committee

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Frank L. Smith is doubtful what he will do about the action of the senate in barring him temporarily from taking the oath of office as senator from Illinois. He may go before the privileges and elections committee tomorrow to demand a hearing, or he may return to Illinois to seek the support of the people against the action of the senate.

Smith Refuses Comment

Smith declined to make a statement, following adoption of the Reed disarmament resolution, by a vote of 48 to 33, yesterday afternoon, but it was learned he was in considerable doubt as to his future course.

The road ahead of him here appears to be blocked by the senate vote, and he is not encouraged by the prospects. His friends have told him he cannot possibly obtain his seat and some have suggested that he would defeat his own ultimate purpose by pressing the matter further.

"Smith should go back to his people to see whether they agree to what the senate has done," one of his friends declared.

Urge Full Presentation

Others, however, urged him to present his case in full. They said he should appear before the senate tomorrow to tell his version of how he spent $27,000 in the primary campaign last fall and received most of the sum from public utilities operators, although he was at the time chairman of the state public utilities commission.

The vote yesterday killed Smith's best chance to obtain the seat he claimed. He was prevented from receiving the oath of office by adoption of the Reed resolution, which specified the privileges and elections committee should first make an investigation and report on his fitness for office.

U. S. NAVAL VESSELS WILL RESCUE CITIZENS MENACED BY ANTI-FOREIGN RIOTING

Washington Government Holds Situation In Far East Most Serious Since Days of Boxer Rebellion

ENVOY ON WAY BACK TO PEKING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The U. S. marine detachment at Guam was today ordered to the Philippine islands to be nearer China, in event of emergency.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The U. S. government moved speedily today to meet what is considered the most serious threat to foreign lives in China since the Boxer rebellion. Preparations were made for complete evacuation of the 12,000 Americans there if anti-foreign riots continue. Minister John Van A. MacMurray, who was in Korea, enroute to Washington, has been ordered back to Peking to take charge of the situation.

If American naval forces on the Chinese coast and in the Philippines prove inadequate, commercial vessels will be commandeered to carry Americans to the Philippines or Hawaii.

The U. S. forces will limit their action to protection of Americans and will not interfere with Chinese military and political conflicts, it was learned.

Although most of the American women and children already evacuated from Hankow, Goochow, Amoy and Kiating, the danger is now considered greatest at isolated mission posts of the interior. Missionaries have been warned by consuls in several regions to hasten to Shanghai.

At Shanghai and Peking, which have the largest American populations, elaborate plans have been made for military protection of the foreign quarters.

AMERICANS ORDERED TO LEAVE YEN PIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The New York office of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal church today received a cable from its mission at Yen Ping, saying that the American consul had advised all Americans to leave Yen Ping. The women and children have already started for Manila, the cable said, but the men remained behind to carry on the work.

The only Americans at Yen Ping, a town on the Min river, about 75 miles from Foochow, the United Press was informed, were those connected with the Methodist mission and they numbered 24 adults and several children.

Francis D. Ganewell, associate secretary for the eastern division of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist church, who returned last year after spending 40 years in China, admitted the present situation was critical, but said it was significant that thus far there had been no loss of life.

U. S. MINISTER WILL RETURN TO PEKING

PEKING, Jan. 21.—Possibility of serious developments in China, that may endanger the lives of Americans, has forced American Minister John Van A. MacMurray to cancel his visit to Washington and return to Peking immediately.

The American legation here today received a telegram from Minister MacMurray, sent from Korea, announcing his sudden change of plans.

MacMurray informed the legation that cancellation of the trip had been in accordance with instructions from the state department, at Washington. He said he expected to arrive in Peking next Monday, January 24.

Mrs. MacMurray and the children, the minister said, probably will continue to the United States.

AMERICANS HASTEN TO LEAVE FOOCHOW

FOOCHOW, Jan. 21.—Impelled by the threatened renewal of anti-foreign demonstrations and the clash of rival Chinese factions, Americans here today were hastening their plans for departure from the city.

Renewal of the looting and banditry was expected momentarily.

The storm came from the ocean and passed on during the night, the skies today being bright, with clouds hanging here and there. The sun came out early and a warm day resulted.

"The rain was fine, the ground is warm and 'little barleys' are jumping up fast," was the comment of one grain grower, in speaking of benefits from the downpour.

The increase in the moisture precipitation compared with the same date a year ago holds out encouragement to farmers and prediction is being made that bumper crops will be grown on dry lands. It is anticipated that the storms during the remainder of this month and in February, March and April will bring the total for the season up to normal.

The weather bureau predicted clearing skies for this afternoon and clear and colder weather conditions tomorrow. Rainfall figures for the storm are as follows:

Los Angeles, .69; Pasadena, .53; Pomona, .56; Riverside, .13; Santa Barbara, .57; San Bernardino, .74; Los Angeles harbor, .39; Mt. Wilson, .38.

METROPOLITAN BILL BEING CONSIDERED

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 21.—One of the most important matters pertaining to the water resources of California being considered by the legislature today was the Metropolitan Water District bill, introduced by Senator Ralph E. Swing, of San Bernardino.

Primarily designed to allow the cities of Southern California to organize into one big water district, the proposed measure provides for the incorporation, government and management of Metropolitan water districts, authorizing such districts to incur bonded debt and to acquire, construct, operate and manage works and property. Municipal corporations would be authorized to aid and participate in the incorporation of such districts. The bill is now in the hands of the committee on municipal corporations.

Senator Swing explained that the measure was drafted for the benefit of the coastal plain cities, all those located south of the Tehachapi.

"The water supply for these cities is so inadequate that it is estimated they would have to stop growing in the next 10 years without use of the Colorado river waters," stated Swing.

BIG APPETITES PROVE FATAL TO MOUSE HORDES

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 21.—Mice that eat poisoned grain display the same symptoms as human beings who drink bad bootleg liquor, close observation of individual members of the army of "millions" of mice, which is occupying territory near the Buena Vista lake basin, revealed today.

A close study of the mice also disclosed the fact that six nibbles of poisoned grain are sufficient to prove fatal.

After eating one or two grains, the mice become playful and frolic with other mice. When they devour two more grains, they begin to stagger, as if intoxicated. After eating the sixth grain, they usually lie down and die.

Seldom do the mice leave the sticky food after they have taken one bite and this intemperance is gradually thinning out their ranks.

7 Tons of Poisoned Grain

More than seven tons of poisoned grain, costing approximately $1000, have been used in the warfare against the pests. If the glutinous appetites of the little animals continue as in the past week, when the plague had reached its most serious proportions, this amount of poisoned grain should diminish the number of the mouse army by several million.

Although the mice far outnumber the human forces fighting them, they have become virtually powerless in the face of the systematic offensive mapped by their opponents.

They have been trapped in a territory approximately 15 miles square by trenches dug by farm tractors and filled with poisoned grain. With the completion of this boundary, all danger of the mice invading cities in the vicinity of their operations is past.

Cats Tire of Mice

The only victory chalked up by the mice today was the routing of cats in the district. The cats, which have been feasting royally without having to work to find their prey, have, sickened of mice and are retreating from the district. The cats have been living like queens, but like the mice with the poisoned grain, they did not seem to know when to quit.

Lack of leadership is noticeable in the mouse army. The rodents run around in large bands, but the bands do not seem to have a general or an objective.

The mice fight one another when the conquest of a bag of grain is successful or one of the multitude finds a warm haven during the night in a suit of clothes.

ARMY OF MICE AT KLAMATH FALLS

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Jan. 21.—A poisoning campaign was under way here today in combating the horde of mice which is appearing by the thousands in the hay and grain fields of this county. The campaign is being directed by C. A. Henderson, county agent, and is carried on by the farmers, who are furnished with quantities of poison solution, which is sprinkled over the infested areas.

The outbreak here is not without precedent, as a mice invasion of Klamath fields by mice took place a few years ago.

SUGGESTS COLONY OF SKUNKS AS REMEDY

RUSHVILLE, Mo., Jan. 21.—What California needs to rid mice infested sections of their pests, is a colony of skunks, according to Lewis F. Gingery.

In advocating a state skunk farm, Gingery asserted his study of the problem has led him to the conclusion that mice abound where skunks, weasels and foxes are almost extinct.

"If these animals were permitted or encouraged to live in greater numbers, they would keep communities free of mice," Gingery contends.

'Bachelors' Plan Dansant; BEARDLESS BROTHERS MAY BE FINED Girl Friends Are Invited

After taking themselves quite seriously for, lo, these many months, the Brotherhood of Bachelors, the Santa Ana Junior college anti-flirt league of beardless youths, none of whom is hardly old enough to even consider marriage, not to say anything about taking vows of celibacy, has voted to hold its first dansant.

And to secure publicity for the event and make it a little more conspicuous than just an ordinary "hop," the exploitation engineer for the Bachelors writes that the beardless brother who shows up at the feet convention without a girl friend will be fined.

So there.

And the "man of vision" further intimated that the offending one might be tapped on the wrist and denied the usual piece of peanut brittle at the next secret council.

The expected surrender of the Bachelors is scheduled to take place at the Santa Ana Country club, the evening of January 29.

The publicity counsel stated that the Bachelors did not wear their purple headgear yesterday because of the rain. Impartial observers of the antics of the Bachelors stated that it was far better to keep the purple on the head than on the fuzziest face.

We didn't want to be called the Purple Streaks. That would make us blue," the press agent neatly typed.

PASTOR WEEPS AS HE TELLS OF KILLING CHIPPS

(By United Press)

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 21.—Dramatically describing the threats made against his life, the Rev. J. Frank Norris, Fort Worth Baptist minister, broke down and wept on the witness stand today as he told how he shot and killed Dexter E. Chipps, wealthy lumberman, in the pastor's study last July 17.

Through the questioning of his attorney, Dayton Moses, Norris had been led up to the description of the tragedy by relating that he had been told Chipps intended to kill him because of Norris' editorial attacks on city officials of Fort Worth; that Chipps called him on the telephone the day of the slaying and warned him that he was coming over to the study and adding, "I'm not going to stand it any longer—I'm coming over to kill you, you—"

Chipps' Name Announced
"When Chipps first entered," Norris said, "he announced his name."

L. H. Nutt, eye-witness to the shooting, was in the pastor's study at the time, Norris said.

"This is D. E. Chipps," Norris continued. "He looked at Nutt. 'I know this man,' he said. 'I've seen him at the bank.' He sat on the settee and shook his fist, saying, 'I've got something to say. If you say another word about my friends, I'm going to kill you.' Nutt asked whom he referred to. 'Meacham, Carr and Roach,' Chipps replied, adding, 'I'll kill you.' 'Then I spoke to him for the first time. 'You don't mean that. What interest is it to you?'"

Walks to Center of Room
"Chipps got up and walked to the center of the room. I arose."

"What did you say, Doctor?" asked Dayton Moses, Norris' chief counsel.

"I looked at him and saw he was so mad—ungovernable," Norris replied.

"He said, 'You've got to retract that sermon on Meacham or I'll kill you.'"

"I said the sermon was already published. 'You are making an impossible demand.'"

Here Norris' voice faltered.

"There's the door," I told Chipps," the pastor continued in a low tone as spectators leaned forward to catch every word of his testimony.

"He turned and walked toward the door and went out into the anteroom, saying, 'I mean every word.'"

Didn't Want Trouble
"I said, 'I repeat what I've said. I don't want any trouble.'"

"Just as I got to my desk I heard him say, 'I'll kill you.' 'I saw him coming.'"

The minister was weeping and tears coursed down his cheeks.

"What did you do then, Doctor," prompted Moses.

Norris paused before answering. "I reached to the drawer of my desk," he said, tearfully, "and grabbed a pistol."

"What did you do with the pistol," again prompted the attorney.

"I shot him," Norris answered.

fact, effective immediately upon passage of the Swing-Johnson Boulder dam bill by congress, was asked of the state legislature today by Senator Ralph E. Swing, of San Bernardino, in a bill introduced in the senate.

The bill, upon passing the two houses, would be left in the hands of Governor Young for his signature immediately on the passage of the Boulder dam bill.

Assemblyman Myron D. Witter, of Brainerd, introduced a bill seeking to increase the tri-state Boulder dam commission appointed by Governor Young from three to five members.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The ill-fated Wilkins polar expedition, which last year was forced to abandon its flight to the north pole because of successive accidents, is now prepared to try again.

Plans for the second expedition, which also is known as the Detroit arctic expedition, are now complete, according to Hugh Duncan Grant, aid to Capt. Hubert Wilkins, and the explorers hope to leave Seattle on February 12.

Two Stinson planes and a Fokker monoplane with a cruising radius of 2000 miles, will be used, Grant, a former British naval officer, said.

The expedition hopes to find the land, if any, that lies between Point Barrow, Alaska, and the pole.

BRITISHERS ADOPT ANCIENT STYLES

LONDON, Jan. 21.—British men seem to be going back to the mid-Victorian fashions in their dress.

J. C. Squire, editor of the London Mercury, is appearing these days in a dark gray jacket cut away over his waistcoat and buttoning closely up under a large wing collar.

Thomas Hardy sometimes wears coats like those of Squire. So does Clough William Ellis, the architect.

Probably the most sartorially daring man in London is Stephen Gaslee, the librarian of the foreign office, who wears leather waistcoats topped by jackets cut after the fashions of the sixties.

Gaslee has always been noted for being extraordinary. He had kangaroo steaks served at his twenty-first birthday dinner at Cambridge, and the clothes he was seen wearing at the university were even more surprising than those in which he appears at Whitehall.

He is a believer in ancient rites and ceremonies and is credited with reviving the custom at Cambridge of drinking from loving cups filled with "copas." Copas is an extraordinarily unpalatable brew made of spices, old ale and sherry, all muddled together and served with pieces of burned toast floating on the top.

With deepest gratitude to every one, for every flower, word, deed and hand clasp, we come to you through the Register. May God give each, the blessings you have given to, and for our dear mother, grandmother and sister, Maria C. Hill.

Frank Walker, a former major leaguer, who piloted the Greenville team to the South Atlantic league pennant last year, has disposed of his other business interests and purchased the Greenville franchise with a view to giving his whole attention to the club next season.

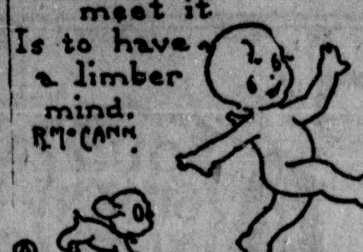

The Washington Senators probably will go to bat next spring with few new faces in the lineup, as President Clark Griffith and Manager Stanley Harris seem to be pretty well satisfied with the present outfit.

BUILDING BILL DESCRIBED AS CLASS MEASURE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The Campbell bill, which would require practically all new government construction work to be performed by private contractors, is a piece of "vicious legislation," and, if passed, would "place the government at the mercy of the contractors," the minority members of the house judiciary committee allege in their report.

Direct issue is taken with the majority report, in which it was claimed that there is a "popular demand for contract work, inspired by a desire to get away from the day labor method pursued by the government."

The bill has been flayed by the war department, which supervises the development of rivers and harbors. It has been strongly supported by contractor associations, speaking through the Associated Contractors of America.

Explaining the allegation of viciousness, the minority forces in passage of this bill a large increase of expense to taxpayers, and they express the belief that only favored general contractors, members of the association, will obtain contracts through bids.

"It should be understood," the report says, "that the general policy of the corps of engineers has always been, and is now, to do all work practicable by contract, but some of the river and harbor work is so attended by risks and uncertainties, because of natural conditions which must be met, that it is practically out of the question to get a reasonable bid."

Answering the argument advanced by the contractors that government work was being done by hired day labor, the report states that due to inherent hazards in harbor work, many contractors have refused to assume unusual risks.

"The proposed legislation," the report continues, "will tend to lose to the public those savings now made by use of maintenance plants on new work. In addition, the bill is new work in the provision for lease of government equipment. This offers the opportunity for the wearing out and scrapping of the government's highly efficient dredging fleet within a short period of years. It puts the government plant on the market in direct competition with plants now owned by contractors. It removes protection which the public now has against high dredging costs by reverts as a check."

VIRGINIA BRANNON, PRETTY SANTA ANA GIRL, IS GIVEN TITLE "MISS ORANGE COUNTY"

Miss Virginia Brannon, pretty and talented Santa Ana high school girl, became "Miss Orange County" as a climax to the Orange County Personality pageant in which approximately 100 of this section's fairest daughters, representing some enterprise indicative of the progressive spirit of the communities, participated at the Yost Broadway theater last night.

U. S. HOLDS UP ALIMONY GIVEN CHAPLIN'S WIFE

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—The refusal of the internal revenue bureau to allow payment of alimony to Lita Grey Chaplin, from personal funds of the comedian's, now under government tax liens, will not delay payment of the award more than three weeks, counsel for Mrs. Chaplin said today.

"If the internal revenue department has refused to act, Mrs. Chaplin's alimony will be tied up for the time being," Attorney Lyndol Young said. "However, Chaplin must post bond before the end of 20 days, at which time the government may act to take over his property."

Bond of Million Required
After posting the bond of $1,000,000, Chaplin's holdings will again be under the direction of the receiver-ship and by court order they will pay the alimony and other awards of $14,400.

Attorneys for the comedian are not expected to post another bond of $1,000,000, which would automatically lift the receivership, pending appeal to the supreme court, and thus block efforts to collect the alimony a second time.

Internal revenue C. H. Welch filed another lien late yesterday, in which Chaplin's name played a part. The Charles Chaplin Film corporation is the latest object of the government's suits, a lien asking payment of $60,056.74, due, it is alleged, for the year 1925, having been filed against the movie company.

Chaplin must now post two bonds of approximately $1,000,000 each in order to again come into possession of his property.

U. S. Can Sell Property
Unless he posts bond to meet the government liens or pays the amounts charged against him, the government can sell his property by issuing a warrant of distraint.

If the government's demands are met, he must then post another bond of $1,000,000 to lift the receivership, which was ordered by the court at the first hearing in the sensational divorce case.

Attorneys for Chaplin late yesterday warned the receivers and the Fidelity & Deposit Co., of Maryland, responsible for their bond, that they would be held to answer for any money used to satisfy the alimony award.

LITA MUST WAIT FOR ALIMONY PAYMENTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Mrs. Charlie Chaplin will have to wait for her alimony payments until the government back tax case against the comedian is settled, it was stated at the treasury today.

C. R. Nash, deputy chief of the internal revenue bureau, said there is nothing his department can do to allow the alimony decree to take precedence over the government tax liens.

The million-dollar lien filed by the collector of internal revenue at Los Angeles against the Chaplin property takes precedence over every claim not of prior record, Nash explained.

Until the extent of the Chaplin estate is determined and the tax liability is settled, the government will not permit release of the comedy king's funds.

A long fight on this phase of the case is expected.

Chaplin may appeal to the internal revenue bureau for relief from the income tax assessment. Should he be dissatisfied with the treasury decision, the case would then be appealed to the U. S. board of tax appeals, preventing final settlement of the problem for at least a year, it was said.

SCION NABBED ON LARCENY CHARGE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—Stout Fletcher III, scion of the powerful Indianapolis family of bankers, faces charges of grand larceny here today, as an aftermath to a battle over feminine finery, in which a lady of uncertain identity was the recipient of a black eye.

Fletcher pleaded not guilty to the charges before Judge H. E. Billings, of the Beverly Hills township justice court, yesterday, and was ordered to appear for a preliminary hearing.

To pleas of guilty of assault and battery in connection with the same case, Fletcher's sister, Louise Fletcher, and Ruth Miles, a chum, were fined $50 each, and jail sentence of 30 days was suspended.

The woman who brought about the arrest of Fletcher and the two girls was known to them, they said, as "Lady Diana Bathurst." However, she was on court records as Miss Virginia Hurst, and, following the hearing, the judge was informed by telephone that the name was Viola Hurst.

Miss Hurst did not appear at the hearing, but deputies testified as to her discolored optic, received, it is alleged, in a "free-for-all" fight over a trunk of feminine wearing apparel.

According to the complaint, Miss Hurst charges that Fletcher moved the clothing, valued at $650, and the fight ensued. She intimated the charges would be dropped if Fletcher would return the clothing.

Miss Brannon and Miss Evelyn Dysart, who became "Miss Santa Ana" when Miss Brannon relinquished this title for the grand award of "Miss Orange County," both earned the privilege of visiting the Cecil B. DeMille studios to be photographed with the DeMille featured players and the cast of the forthcoming picture, "The King of Kings."

The judges of the contest, W. B. Williams, F. E. Farnsworth, William Murphy, Frank L. Purinton and W. B. Packard, were governor in their selections by the applause that greeted the introduction of each candidate.

The contest was preceded by the showing of a motion picture featuring all the participants which was shot in the rain yesterday, rushed to the Hurlay Laboratory in Hollywood and returned under police escort, was well staged and provided a spectacle of lovely girlhood.

Miss Evelyn Dysart received the First National bank trophy, a handsome loving cup donated by A. J. Crookshank, and with the trophy Miss Dysart became "Miss Santa Ana." Along with Miss Brannon and "Miss Fullerton," "Miss Anaheim," "Miss La Habra," "Miss Balboa," "Miss Westminster," "Miss Orange" and "Miss Buena Park" all of whom had been selected in previous pageants held in theaters at Fullerton and Anaheim, Miss Dysart was presented to the audience who were asked to select "Miss 1927" of Orange County, the grand prize.

Miss Brannon had already achieved the distinction of having been selected as "Miss Santa Ana," but she agreed to put her popularity to the acid test and relinquish that title and enter the contest for the grand award.

Miss Dysart was presented by the McCune Furniture company while Miss Brannon represented Hightower and Cromer, as "Miss Packard."

Miss Natalie Kingston, a new featured player with Milton Sills, made a hurried trip from Burbank to Santa Ana, and was introduced.

Miss Kingston responded with a charming little speech and presented the trophies to "Miss Santa Ana" and "Miss 1927 of Orange County."

YORBA LINDA MAN FOUND DEAD IN BED

Carl Herman, 50, a lemon picker for the Yorba Linda Citrus association, was found dead in bed this morning by F. H. Cuthbert, packing house foreman, who broke down the door of Herman's room when he received no response to his calls.

Death is believed to have been caused by pneumonia. According to a Yorba Linda physician, Herman had been under his care for some time for a heavy cold.

The body was taken to the McAuley and Suter parlors, in Fullerton. An inquest probably will be held tomorrow.

So far as is known, the man had no relatives in the United States. He had been employed by the citrus association for seven years.

Guests at Dinner Saved from Cobra

TRINCOMAL, Ceylon, Jan. 21.—Strategy of the hostess saved a party of dinner guests here from a dangerous snake.

Half way through the meal every one was horrified to hear the hostess order a servant to place a bowl of milk on the floor near her feet.

Instinctively every one knew that a snake was in the room.

No one moved. Presently a large cobra was seen to glide from under the table and go to the bowl of milk, an irresistible bait.

The woman fainted. The cobra, deadliest snake in the world, had been coiled about her ankle.

Washington fans were relieved to learn that the great Walter Johnson is to remain with the Senators for another season. It had been rumored that the famous slab artist was thinking some of retiring from baseball and going into the insurance business.

UPON HONESTY OF PRISONER SEEKING PROBATION HINGES DECISION OF STERN JUSTICE

Honesty is the best policy. The old adage was reaffirmed today, when Charles Dupont appeared before Superior Judge Homer G. Ames with a plea for probation in connection with a charge of escaping from an officer.

The scenes were all set for granting of the plea. Dupont would be set free instead of being sent to San Quentin, branded as a felon for possibly 10 years. His offense had been of a more or less inconsequential nature. It was admitted, but the law, written in this case by the supreme court rather than by the legislature, stated that it was, nevertheless, a felony. The judge was inclined to leniency.

Then a few preliminary questions were asked of Dupont, who had been serving out a $250 fine for reckless driving, at the time he walked away from a road gang to visit his sick wife. Judge Ames wanted to know the circumstances of his arrest for reckless.

He Didn't Know Dupont said that he didn't know why he had been arrested. Apparently for no reason at all. He had pleaded guilty because he had been advised by friends that it was the easiest way out.

The court frankly stared in disbelief, which immediately was given verbal expression.

"You are before this court for probation and I haven't yet decided whether to give it to you," Judge Ames reminded the prisoner. "If you ever were frank with yourself or anybody else in your life, now is the time to be just that."

But Dupont maintained that he hadn't violated any law, so far as he knew.

"I can't believe that the traffic officers in this county would arrest a person without cause," said the justice. "I would administer such a sentence without cause," said Judge Ames. "I will say that I probably would have granted probation to you if satisfied as to your honesty. Now, I intend to investigate. I want to know more about the facts in this case. If I find that you have attempted to deceive the court, I probably will not give you probation."

To Investigate Case The case was continued to 1:30 p. m., for investigation, with the outcome hinging upon the proof of Dupont's honesty with the court.

The peculiar legal situation, covering the case of Dupont, was pointed out today by his attorney, D. G. Wettin.

According to the attorney, the statute provides that any prisoner, convicted of a felony, who escapes or attempts to escape from any prison, officer or road gang, is guilty of a felony. The statute does not include prisoners serving sentences for misdemeanors, he said. This statute was enacted in 1923. Prior to that time, the law covered prisoners serving either misdemeanor or felony sentences, it was claimed.

In interpreting the 1923 amendment, the supreme court, says Wettin, declared its disbelief that the legislature intentionally omitted belief, which immediately was its provisions and held that the law must apply to all escapes. "That's one thing that the supreme court read law into the statutes," said Wettin.

Court Notes

Trial Date Is Set The trial of David Donnelly, 68, on a statutory charge, today was set for March 3, when Donnelly pleaded not guilty in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court. Attorney Clyde Bishop represents the defendant.

Court Appoints Lawyer Charles Gray charged with failing to support his minor child, was arraigned today before Superior Judge H. G. Ames. Gray lacking funds with which to employ an attorney, the court appointed Attorney Harry C. Westover, of Santa Ana, as counsel for the defense. The case was continued to 1:30 p. m. today, for the filing of Gray's plea to the charge. Gray, now a resident of Glendale, formerly lived in Fullerton.

50 VOLUNTEER TO BE STUNG BY BEES

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Fifty young men and women students of the Homeopathic Medical college have volunteered to be artificially "stung" by bees and spiders in an attempt to determine whether the venom can be made to serve some medicinal purpose.

Members of the squad with notebook and pencil will record the mental and physical effects of the poisons as they are injected while experts make careful observation.

While the experiment probably never has noticed any beneficial result from an encounter with a bee or a spider, the scientists at the college hold a belief that the poisons of the insects may be used as a remedy for form of kidney disease.

Members of the squad must be willing to "suffer pain and mental anguish in the interests of science."

Small amounts of the poisons will be given at first and the subjects are expected to be able to continue attendance at classes. With the coming of the summer vacation, doses will be increased to such an extent that hospitalization may be necessary. The volunteers have signed waivers freeing the institution from any responsibility for possible ill consequences.

Various other nonhabit-forming drugs will be used in the experiments.

Marble Stones To Be Erected On War Graves

PARIS, Jan. 21.—Marble headstones, it is reported, are to be substituted for the wooden crosses of $1,000 American war graves in Europe. Col. R. W. Van Duyen, of the graves registration service, is said to have concluded a contract with a quarry firm at Pietrasanta, Italy, delivery to begin in February. Surnames cemetery, near Paris, will be the first to be improved. The stones will be of two types, one a cross and the other the star of David.

NECESSITY OF NEW SCHOOL TO BE TOLD BOARD

The imperative necessity of taking action looking toward the erection of a new junior high school plant in the northern part of the city before such a need is accentuated by a disaster involving the loss of human life will be brought to the attention of the school trustees Tuesday at the regular meeting of the school board, inquiries disclosed today.

In addition to formal representations by the Frances E. Willard Junior high school P. T. A., whose members have sons and daughters in the old school building, several delegations of citizens, representing the citizenship at large, will be on hand with their requests and recommendations.

Attention will be invited to the fact that the main building of the Frances E. Willard Junior high school not only is a veritable fire-trap, but unsanitary, because of defective and unsatisfactory plumbing arrangements, it was said. Particular stress will be laid on the fact that although the auditorium is located on the second floor and thus exposed to the full sweep of a sudden conflagration, having its origin in the boiler rooms, there are no fire escapes to facilitate the exits of students attending assembly, it was pointed out.

It was revealed that the various citizens' committees will insist that definite action be taken by the present board, thus furnishing a basis for continued activity on the part of the new board, to be elected in the coming city elections. Failure on the part of the present trustees to indicate this pressing need to their successors will lead to further delays on the ground that the new board will need some time to acquaint itself with the needs of the school district and, for this reason, would not feel like taking hasty action, it was declared.

Biddy Lays Eggs Worth $25 Each

AGASSIZ, B. C., Jan. 21.—Prof. E. A. Lloyd, of the University of British Columbia, experimental farm here, has no interest in looking for the goose that laid the golden egg. He has developed a hen that is just as good.

A Texas offered him 125 apiece for three eggs, practically the equivalent of their weight in gold. Professor Lloyd won't quibble.

The hen laid 351 eggs last year, setting a world record in a contest at Agassiz. Previously the title was held by an Australian pullet with 347 eggs in 1924.

Symphony Orchestra
To Offer Program
At Ebell Club

When members of the Ebell society of Santa Ana valley meet at the clubhouse next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, they will be privileged to hear an artist program of worth and beauty which will be offered by home talent, for the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra will be presented together with its vocal soloist, Mrs. W. Slabaugh, and two guest artists, Edward H. Burns and Ione Tunison Peck.

There will be a brief opening session of the society, conducted by the president, Mrs. S. W. Stanley after which the auditorium stage will be surrendered to the orchestra of which D. C. Clanton is conductor and Mrs. Slabaugh is manager.

The program of pronounced beauty which will be given, will open with cello numbers by Mr. Burns with Mrs. Peck at the piano. He will play "Romance" by Gollmann and "Nocturne" by Burgmüller. The orchestra will follow with an overture, "Hungarian Lustspiel" by Kellner Bela and "Minuetto" from Bizet's "L'Arlesienne."

Mrs. Slabaugh will sing the Aria from "Nadischda" (Goring Thomas) "My Heart is Weary" with Mrs. Peck as her accompanist. The orchestra will then play a Strauss waltz, "Tales from the Vienna Woods;" Grieg's "Solveig's Song" from the Peer Gynt Suite and conclude the program with Brahms' "Hungarian Dance."

The music will precede a social hour during which the members received during the year 1926, will be extended a cordial welcome at a tea with the courtesy committee members forming the hostess group.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

First Presbyterian
Wednesday's all-day meeting of the First Presbyterian Aid society was a successful event in which sewing was accomplished by the members, preceding the noon luncheon served by the northwest section. One hundred and twenty-five members were served at the luncheon.

In the afternoon session, Mrs. Harold Pollock played a brilliant piano solo, "La Cascade," and then Mrs. A. N. MacDermott led in the devotionals with "Faith" as her subject. After her excellent talk, the usual reports were submitted and the routine business matters of the society, conducted.

Announcement was made of the Federated Aid meeting in Los Angeles to be held in the near future in Lamont avenue Presbyterian church and a large attendance of local members was urged.

As special entertainment features, the Cotton Blossom Singers from Piney Woods school, Mississippi, were introduced and gave a delightful program of negro melodies. They were accompanied by Mrs. Lawrence Jones, wife of the president and founder of the school, who told of what is being accomplished there, and many interesting details of the work and aims of the school. She told of its foundation upon faith alone, a further exemplification of the program theme.

As the final feature Mrs. Herbert M. Sammis sang "Calm as the Night."

First Christian
The Missionary society of the First Christian church met Wednesday afternoon in the community house, following a luncheon held jointly with the Ladies Aid society at noon. The usual opening program of song and prayer was followed by a short business period, conducted by the president, Mrs. F. T. Porter.

Mrs. John Pierce, in charge of the program for the afternoon, presented Mrs. A. N. Glancy, as leader of the devotionals. The Scripture lesson dealing with the writings of Paul, was presented in an interesting manner by Mrs. Glancy, who later offered prayer.

Mrs. James O'Brien spoke on Africa, her topic being "Turning the Light on the Dark Continent." "Mohammed or Christ" was the subject taken up by Mrs. W. P. Hagthorn who emphasized among other things that this is Christianity's day of opportunity.

Mrs. Benton of Los Angeles, who has been heard many times over the radio, sang a beautiful number, after which the meeting closed with benediction.

St. Joseph's Altar
St. Joseph's Altar society held a very well attended meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. M. Banks, 702 Spurgeon street with Mrs. Banks, Mrs. J. P. Murphy and Mrs. R. R. Atken as hostesses.

Mrs. George W. Young was elected president and Mrs. J. P. Murphy secretary-treasurer, the three vice presidents to be elected at the February meeting. The director, the Rev. Father H. Eummelen, was present and plans for the year adopted. The secretary-treasurer's report, sent in by Mrs. Ashby Turner, showed the treasury in good condition.

It was decided to have a series of card parties at the spacious home of Mrs. William Castler, 720 Spurgeon street, the funds obtained to be turned into the church treasury to help make up for the Christmas collection, which was stolen. Mrs. Clyde Ashen will be the chairman for the first party, the date to be announced later.

One new member, Mrs. Rose Heim, was accepted into the society.

The diocesan council meeting for Friday and Saturday of this week in the Chamber of Commerce building, Twelfth and Broadway, was announced and members urged to attend the noon luncheon and the afternoon meeting scheduled for today.

At the close of the meeting the hostesses served refreshments of home-made cake and coffee.

College Students Plan
Oriental Tea for Entertainment

Fragrant incense, lighted candles, and four hosts clad in colorful Chinese costumes, gave an atmosphere reminiscent of the east, to the oriental tea held Wednesday afternoon by the art students of Santa Ana Junior college.

The four graduating members of the art class, Miss Grace Alberts, Paul Alberts, David Ross and Don Minor were the hosts who received their guests with oriental mysticism and courtesy. David Ross later presided at the tea tables where preserved ginger, wafers, bonbons and ice cream were served with the fragrant Chinese tea.

One of the unique features of the entertainment was the fortune telling by means of tea leaves, by Miss Floy Donaldson, art teacher. All were keenly interested in the bright futures revealed, for of course the leaves failed to foretell any but the best of fortunes.

Several of the students engaged in a tea-drinking contest striving to experience that feeling of "celestial sensuality" which they hoped would result. In every respect it was the most enjoyable afternoon for the young people, about about 35 in number.

Birthday Surprise Is Planned by Friends

A delightful surprise party was tendered last night to Mrs. Belle Melton, in honor of her birthday, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Jordan, 611 South Garnsey avenue.

Guests gathered for a 7 o'clock dinner, served in the attractively decorated dining-room where flowers and all decorative appointments were in pink and white. Place of honor at the table was reserved for Mrs. Melton who was the recipient of many lovely gifts from her friends.

Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. Jordan, the hosts and the honoree, Mrs. Melton, and for W. F. Guley, the Misses Gladys Melton, Lola Melton and Lula Cummings, all of this city; C. M. Shook of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. George Melton and son Bobby of Santa Barbara; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Parks and daughters, Pauline and Lavene, Tustin.

Cards and dancing formed the entertainment of the evening which concluded with the expression of friendly wishes for many more equally happy birthday celebrations for Mrs. Melton.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The First Current Events section of Ebell will meet Tuesday, January 25, for a 1 o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. Arthur May, 909 South Birch street. Mrs. N. H. Hilton will be co-hostess with Mrs. May.

Business and Professional Women are to have the pleasure of hearing Attorney Clara Cushman, one of the members, tell some of her experiences in Mexico where she spent the early months of the winter, returning just before Christmas.

The Orange County Music Teachers' association will meet Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Ebell Fraser studio, Greenleaf building. Mr. Fraser will add piano solos to the program which will be in charge of Phyllis Lucy Keyes, president of the association. A round table on "How to present technique and phrasing to beginners" will be conducted and all the piano teachers especially are requested to come prepared to take part in the discussion.

The Northside club will meet Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. F. Herring on West Nineteenth street.

S. Decker, in her beautiful home, 922 South Main street, entertained the Congregational Women's union as it presented the regular monthly program. Mrs. Decker was assisted by Mesdames L. M. Smith, Knox, J. A. Cranston, C. M. Rowland and Gowdy. Mrs. P. L. Toole, retiring president of the missionary department, presided and the large attendance indicated the interest taken in this branch of the union's activities.

Mrs. William Gebb, in the devotional service, spoke of the courage needed to approach the work of the coming year and continued in a happy vein with some of the experiences met in the old home in Arizona among the Latin American people, of the kindness and courtesy which she always found among them. This was a fitting opening to the review of the last chapter of the book, given by Mrs. E. M. Blake, concerning these people.

Mrs. Blake brought out clearly the author's thoughts on the benefits and failures of the Roman Catholic church in providing a religion for the people. Mrs. Schrock, Mrs. McCord and Mrs. Powell spoke pro and con of the dangers and benefits which might accrue from an attempt to proselyte or introduce the Protestant religion.

Mrs. A. E. Chapman and Mrs. Johnson accompanied by Miss Carrie Seaton, sang the beautiful selection, "Hark, Hark My Soul" (Harry Rowe Shelley) and as an encore the touching hymn, "The Lord is My Shepherd." Mrs. C. P. Cross then reported news from the missionary field urging members to subscribe to the missionary magazine that they might be better informed on interesting activities. Mrs. Toole presented the officers of the department for the coming year, Mrs. E. M. Blake with her chosen assistants.

Mrs. Schrock then nominated Mrs. Etta Sweet as president and Mrs. W. D. Ranney as vice president of the union. Their election was followed by a social hour and refreshments.

Long Beach Hostess
Entertains Party
At St. Ann's

Mrs. F. J. Turnquist, of Long Beach, preferred the charms of St. Ann's Inn as a setting for a delightful bridge luncheon given yesterday for a group of her friends, including several from Los Angeles and other points, as well as from this city and Long Beach.

A combination of orchid and rose tints made the luncheon appointments most attractive, with sweet peas as the chosen flowers all in pink tints while the orchid note was especially noticeable in the tall candles at each table.

Following the luncheon interval, Mrs. Turnquist led her guests back to the foyer of the Inn where in the meantime, the card tables had been placed for their use. Bridge was introduced at once and late in the afternoon attractive prizes were distributed among those holding special scores.

Mrs. Clarence Sternke of this city was among the guests while the list also included Mrs. J. S. Smart Jr., Mrs. A. W. Sternke, Mrs. Thomas Cooper, Mrs. Wade Walker, Mrs. James P. Ryan, Mrs. Arthur Bricebar, Mrs. D. N. Jones, Mrs. Lansing Howard, Mrs. Clifford Losey, Mrs. M. E. Ellair, of Long Beach; Mrs. M. J. Brooks, of Los Angeles; Mrs. E. L. Van Drensen, of St. Paul, Minn., and Mrs. E. S. Johnson, of Gaylord, Minn.

Merry Group Meets
For Pot-luck Dinner

A jolly event of recent date was the pot-luck dinner at the home of Mrs. Freda Moosner, Barger, 111 West Fourth street, when the members of the Wednesday Afternoon club entertained their husbands at an evening party.

The rooms were made bright and cozy with vivid red carnations and cottonasters, and the soft glow of shaded floor lamps. Southern baked ham, candied sweet potatoes and other dishes brought by the members, made a feast "fit for a king."

The evening was happily passed with games, music and conversation, and at the close of the event, the men declared that they had been treated so well that in the very near future they would entertain their hostesses in right royal manner, as a return courtesy.

Those present besides the hostess were Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Brannan, Mr. and Mrs. John Sauer, Mr. and Mrs. John Daneri, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Tidball, Mr. and Mrs. Linn Shrewsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Koepsel, Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Billingsley, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Anderson, Mrs. Jasper Osborn, Mrs. Elwood Bear and her cousin, Miss Martha Buckwalter of Philadelphia.

BREWERY PROFITABLE
MUNICH, Jan. 21.—Brewing business still pays handsomely in Germany, judging by the dividends recently announced by a number of breweries. Holders of Salvador, of leading Bavarian and Berlin brewing stock, received a 12 per cent dividend, those to Berliner Kindl stock, 18 per cent, and those of Wurzburg stock, 9 per cent.

Child Character in Excellent Program

"Children" formed the theme of yesterday afternoon's delightful program of the Pegasus club, given in the home of Mrs. Fannie Lash, 220 Cypress avenue. Mrs. George Bond, president of the club, conducted the opening session which included roll call and a few business matters and then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Ray Brown who had planned the program.

This opened with a heart-stirring little poem by Mrs. Frank Lansdown, "I Have Done One Thing," followed by a well-prepared paper told of the evils of child labor and on "Child Labor" by Mrs. Clarence Bond. In her paper, Mrs. Bond finally concluded that it was lessening all the time in view of the public sentiment so strongly opposed.

Mrs. R. R. Caldwell read a paper on "Children's Diet" and Mrs. Earl Morris, a new member, introduced the club to Angelo Patri by quoting short selections from his writings, dealing with problems of childhood. Mrs. Bruce Switzer contributed an interesting paper on "Eskimo Children" and Mrs. Calip Jackson, another new member, gave a poetical introduction to an interesting treatise on "Random Thoughts on Childhood."

A clever humorous poem, "Grandma Says," was read by its author, Mrs. W. E. Foote, and Mrs. George Bond gave a pretty story which she called "A Day By Themselves" and a touching little poem, "Motherhood." Mrs. Lash voiced some searching thoughts on Childhood in a prose contribution and Mrs. George Bond then responded to a request with her poem, "The Lost Baby."

Two club guests, Miss Marjorie Lusk and Mrs. John Drake, added impromptu numbers to the program, the former by an entertaining child's story and the latter by a few reminiscences of her club experiences. The tiny daughter of Mrs. Brown also delighted the group with bits of child verse given in charming manner by the Little Miss Four-Year-Old.

A cheery interval followed during which the members discussed the various features of the afternoon as they enjoyed the tea menu served by Mrs. Lash with the assistance of her young niece. The next Pegasus meeting will be in two weeks with Mrs. Switzer, whose new address is 414 West Chestnut street. Mrs. Charles Bond will be program chairman.

St. Ann Parishioners
Meet for Card Party

At a card party given last night at St. Ann's hall for the Altar society of St. Ann's parish, the hostesses were the newly elected officers of the society, Mrs. Antoine Borchard, Miss Josephine Grossman, Mrs. M. J. Logue and Mrs. Annie Trueblood.

An enjoyable evening was spent in playing five hundred. The successful feminine contestants were Mrs. J. D. Haaf, who won first prize, and Mrs. Annie Trueblood, who was awarded the second. The consolation was given to Mrs. Feris. The winners in the men's game were J. D. Haaf, E. Hageman and J. Burns, the latter being awarded the consolation prize.

Refreshments of salad, wafers, home-made cake and coffee were served by the committee in charge of that portion of the entertainment.

LEGION WOMEN WILL CONDUCT MEMBER DRIVE

The Santa Ana unit of the American Legion auxiliary voted last night, at its regular meeting, to hold a membership campaign, the drive to close with a dinner for old and new members the night of February 17. In connection with the membership campaign, Mrs. Josephine Lykke, president of the Santa Ana unit, reported that Santa Ana now is second in the membership ranking of the California units, San Diego being first, and that it was the desire of the unit members to put Santa Ana in first place.

Mrs. Nora McCalla, past president, was given a past president's pin, with Mrs. Lykke expressing, on behalf of the members, appreciation of her sincere and successful efforts to build up the organization during her tenure of office. One of the accomplishments of the unit in 1926 was the expenditure of $1608.79 on behalf of the veterans in the San Fernando hospital a service in which the mothers, wives and sisters of the ex-service men take great pride.

Members of the Santa Ana post of the American Legion were invited to join with the members of the auxiliary in a social evening and dance, to be held in the legion hall the night of January 25. A Valentine card party also was planned for a date early in February.

Following the business session, refreshments were served by the unit kitchen committee, Mrs. Rowena Fultz, chairman.

Mother Receives Letter from Her Missing Daughter

Ouida Hughes, 18-year-old bride, whose mother reported her disappearance a few days after the girl had eloped from Los Angeles to Santa Ana with Louis Richter, 23, last September 6, has been located, according to a second announcement, just made by her widowed mother, Mrs. Willow Hughes.

In a statement made yesterday in Los Angeles, the mother said that the girl had been located in northern California and had communicated with her mother, giving assurance that all was well.

Mrs. Hughes, it was stated, had last heard from Ouida on December 28, when the newly-weds sailed from Wilmington to Vancouver, where Richter, it later was reported, had been refused admittance to Canada. He was reported to have returned alone to Los Angeles, leaving the bride's whereabouts a mystery.

ORANGE COUNTY RANCHER DIES IN COURTROOM

Harry L. Miller, 60, prominent Orange county rancher, residing one and one-half miles west of Westminster, dropped dead, yesterday, in Judge Valentine's superior court, in Los Angeles, according to word received here.

Death followed a heart attack. In the opinion of Dr. H. G. Marx Miller, who was in the courtroom at the time the man was stricken, acute dilation of the heart was the cause of death.

Courtroom attaches summoned pulmotor squads, but Miller was beyond aid when they arrived.

Miller went to Los Angeles to visit his son, an attorney, with offices in the law building. Not finding his son in his office, he walked to the courthouse and entered Judge Valentine's courtroom.

Funeral services probably will be held tomorrow afternoon, in Long Beach, members of the family said today. Plans for the funeral have not been completed.

Miller had been a resident of Orange county for the last three years, coming here from Long Beach, where he and his family had resided for 27 years. He was a native of Chicago, where he was a civil engineer. Since coming to California, 20 years ago, he had taken great interest in welfare work and improvement movements. He was associated with a number of harbor improvement enterprises here and in Long Beach.

In addition to the son in Los Angeles, Mr. Miller is survived by his widow, Mrs. Katherine Miller; another son, Lawrence Miller, of Westminster, and one daughter, Miss Katherine Miller, a school teacher in Torrance.

Bill for Flood Control of S. A. River Submitted

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 21.—A water-conservation measure was offered in the senate yesterday by Senator Ralph Swing, San Bernardino, which would involve expenditure of several millions on a plan of flood control and water conservation on the Santa Ana river.

Senator Swing's measure does not name a specific sum to be contributed by the state as its share of the Santa Ana river flood-control and water-conservation project and remains open to amendment after the constitutional recess, so as to make it conform with recommendations contained in a report yet to be submitted by State Engineer Bailey.

Bailey and a corps of consulting engineers have spent two years studying the Santa Ana river system to determine the best plan for controlling floods and conserving flood water.

Winter floods on the Santa Ana do considerable damage every year and to this damage is added the loss of much water vitally needed during the summer dry season.

ALIENS TO TEACH
BERKLEY, Jan. 14.—Four noted foreign scholars will teach at University of California summer sessions in 1927, it was announced. They are Henry H. Dixon, professor in plant biology, Trinity college, Dublin; Gustav Aksel Jaederholm, philosopher, University of Gothenburg, Sweden; Helen Wodehouse, University of Bristol, England; and Kurt Koffka, psychologist, University of Glessen, Germany.

CALLES POLICY IS COMMEMORATED IN RESOLUTION

A resolution, commending President Calles, of Mexico, for his efforts "to correct century-old wrongs and to popularize education" and expressing the hope that the friendship and present recognition, by the United States, of the Calles government will not be withdrawn, was adopted last night at the quarterly conference of the First Methodist church. The resolution was signed by C. M. Crist, president of the conference, and James H. Hughes, secretary.

The Rev. Charles F. Seltzer, pastor of the church, said that he did not believe that it was the intention of the resolution to cast any reflection, whatsoever, upon American organization, but that the chief purpose of the resolution was to express the views of the church folk, as American citizens, on a question of foreign policy.

The resolution is as follows: "Whereas, there have arisen certain differences between the republic of Mexico and the United States in regard to the operation of the constitution and other laws of Mexico in reference to the property rights of certain citizens of the United States; and

Relations 'Of Vast Moment'
"whereas, peaceful and friendly relations of these two nations are of vast moment not only to themselves, but also to the whole world; and

"whereas, it would appear to us that under the statesmanlike leadership of President Calles, Mexico is seeking to correct century-old wrongs, to popularize education and actually is moving up out of long-standing financial embarrassment; and

"whereas, intervention of the United States in Mexico, or the withdrawal of its recognition of the present government in Mexico would seem to us to surely give encouragement to the enemies of the present Mexican government and tend to lead the uprising and rebellion there; and

"whereas, both President Coolidge and President Calles have indicated that they are willing to submit the differences that have arisen between foreign land and oil companies and the Mexican government to arbitration; and

"whereas, the First Methodist Episcopal church, of Santa Ana, Calif., is situated in Southern California and its members are engaged in educational and religious work among the immigrant population from our sister republic and therefore are in close touch with and deeply interested in all questions affecting the neighborly and friendly relations of these two countries;

Recommends Arbitration
"Therefore, be it resolved, by the quarterly conference of the First Methodist Episcopal church that this quarterly conference hereby expresses its appreciation of every effort that President Coolidge has made to settle in a friendly manner the differences between the United States and Mexico; that we request that recognition of the present Mexican government by the United States be not withdrawn; that if the two governments cannot find a way for peaceful and friendly settlement through diplomatic channels, they resort to arbitration and not to force; and that we pray that our great and strong nation use every righteous means to assist our sister nation in her struggle toward larger liberties and richer life; and further be it

"Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to President Coolidge and copies to our senators in congress and secretary of state.

"C. M. CRIST, president;
"JAMES H. HUGHES, secretary.

"I hereby certify that I am the qualified and acting secretary of the quarterly conference, of the First Methodist Episcopal church; that the above is a true and correct copy of a resolution passed by said conference at the meeting of the above named conference held in Santa Ana, Calif., on the twentieth day of January, 1927.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto affixed my hand and seal this 21st day of January, 1927."
(SEAL) "JAMES H. HUGHES,
"Secretary of the quarterly conference."

AUTO THIEVES ARE TROUBLING POLICE

Police today announced that considerable trouble was being experienced in coping with thieves, who, during the last several days, have stolen automobiles from downtown streets, driving them to lonely sections of the county, stripping them and then abandoning them.

Three cars have been stripped and abandoned near Santa Ana this week, it was reported. The cars were stolen from Santa Ana streets.

City Marshal Rogers said today that every precaution was being taken to break up the practice and capture the thieves, who are believed to be Santa Ana persons.

January's precious stone is the garnet, symbolizing faithfulness and constancy in love, marriage and friendship.

ADD LIFE TO YOUR YEARS
As well as years to your life. Life without health is burdensome and the lack of it casts a shadow over all our activities. Foley's, a diuretic stimulant to the kidneys, causes a regular, health-giving flow, carrying out of the body in a natural way, that waste matter, which, if not promptly removed, spreads its poisons throughout the entire system, to the detriment of health. Bodily aches, nervous pains, run-down condition of the system, inevitably results. Avoid this. Ask for Foley's, diuretic. Sold everywhere.

Rash On Scalp Spread Over Face Cuticura Healed

"A rash broke out on my scalp and soon spread all over my face, arms, hands and neck. Later the pimples became hard, large and red, and festered and scaled over. At times I could not put my hands in water or do my regular work. My clothing aggravated the breaking out, and my face was disfigured. My hair became very dry and lifeless and fell out something terrible. The trouble lasted about three months.

"I tried different remedies but the trouble kept getting worse. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in one month I was healed." (Signed) Miss Philippina Wahl, Vera Dale, Wash., Oct. 14, 1926.

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, with touches of Cuticura Ointment as required, keeps the skin fresh, smooth and clear. Cuticura Talcum is an ideal toilet powder.

New Students at H. S. Are Welcomed

Students entering the Santa Ana high school at the mid-term from the Frances Willard and Julia Lathrop high schools were shown about the halls and grounds this afternoon by the members of the Girls' league.

Miss Gayle Baldwin, president of the Girls' league, was in charge. The new Poly girls were conducted about the school by "big sisters." During the afternoon, an assembly of the Girls' league was held for the nomination of next semester's officers, at which the "little sisters" were guests.

BILLS GIVE AID TO HIGHWAYS IN SOUTHLAND

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 21.—Southern California's struggle for justice in highway construction seemed well along toward victory, when Senator Breed introduced two bills in the senate providing for a 12-year program of development. Senator Breed's plan calls for an additional tax of 1 cent per gallon on gasoline to finance further construction. The objection to the increase was withdrawn by the Automobile Club of Southern California when other interests in the state agreed to an equitable allocation of the expenditures.

Highways for Southland

Among the primary highways, Southern California will receive under the new bills, besides the main trunk lines between Los Angeles and San Diego and the north, are: From Hanford to the Sequoia national park; from San Fernando to San Bernardino; from San Diego to El Centro; from San Diego to Markleeville, being the route up the Owens river valley; from San Bernardino to Nevada, near Calada; from Mojave to the Colorado river at Needles; from Mecca to Blythe; from Claremont to Riverside; from San Bernardino to El Centro; from El Centro to Yuma; from El Centro to a point on the highway south of San Juan Capistrano. Another road of interest to Southern Californians is the highway from Merced to the Yosemite national park.

These highways are a part of the system designated as primary roads and to which is assigned 75 per cent of the funds, to be expended in proportion to the mileage in each section of the state highway system as outlined in the 1909 bond act.

For Secondary Highways

The remaining 25 per cent goes to secondary highways. These are divided into two groups, northern and southern. The southern group is made up of the counties of San Luis Obispo, Kern, Mono, Tulare, Inyo, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Orange, Riverside, San Diego and Imperial. The funds available for the secondary highways are to be allocated equally between the two groups. It is provided that an amount not to exceed 10 per cent of the latter funds can be used as state aid for joint county highway projects.

One purpose of the bill is to eliminate expansions and additions to the state highway system, so that the original program may be completed. Provisions are inserted for the investigation of the costs and feasibility of the proposed roads under the direction of the highway commission, but at the expense of the proponents of the highway.

The expenditure of the money is placed under the control of the highway commission. The extra tax is estimated to yield $120,000,000 in the 12-year period.

Old Legal Dinner Revived In London

LONDON, Jan. 21.—After a lapse of 229 years an ancient legal dinner was revived here when the benchers of Lincoln's Inn entertained the benchers of Middle Temple.

In the records of Lincoln's Inn, there are entries referring to this dinner as far back as 1420. King George, as senior benchers of Lincoln's Inn, was one of the invited guests.

In 1673, the dinner was abandoned because of a fire in Pump court. The River Thames was frozen over, water was hard to obtain, and it is recorded that the fire engines of the time played away many barrels of beer.

MANY HOBOES JAILED SINCE FIRST OF YEAR

Three more names yesterday were added to the rapidly growing list of alleged vagrants arrested in Santa Ana since the first of the year. The number reached 13 for this week and indications are that there will be more vagrants arrested here this month than in any month in the last two years, according to authorities.

Extreme cold weather in the eastern state is given as a reason for the influx of hobo.

The men arrested yesterday were Lester Holden, 35, negro; Eddie Mitchell, 20, and John Data, 20. The three were lodged in the county jail.

Over 100 men in court yesterday on vagrancy charges, two were given jail sentences of 10 days each and four were released on suspended sentences. Frank and John Ruiz, brothers, were held. Harry Hunter, A. Redmond, R. Nelson and M. Horton were released.

Santa Ana police take much interest in "vags." Among them sometimes are found hunted criminals, and because of this, City Marshal Rogers has given instruction that each man arrested for vagrancy be jailed for 24 hours, at least, for investigation.

That many of the petty larceny cases in and around Santa Ana are the work of vagrants is the belief of police.

CHECK ARTIST GETS COUNTY JAIL TERM

Once dismissed from the U. S. marine corps for assault and battery upon the person of a lieutenant, V. L. Waddell, 25, ex-leatherneck, today escaped Santa Ana through the mercy of Superior Judge Homer G. Ames.

Waddell, who was before the court in connection with two charges of issuing bogus checks, was denied probation.

"I can't let you go scott free. But I'm not going to send you to the penitentiary," said the court, as he sentenced Waddell to a year in the county jail on one charge and three months' additional time on the second charge.

The court adopted the suggestion of District Attorney Z. B. West Jr., that Waddell be placed on the road gang during the 13 months of his sentence and that his wages be paid to his wife and children. Waddell has not been supporting them, the district attorney said.

The two checks figuring in the Waddell case were passed in Santa Ana. Their amounts were $10 and $1.69, respectively.

Cops Will Have Hot Water Bags

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—There will be no more cold feet for Berlin traffic cops this winter if a system of artificial hot water bags at street intersections finds general adoption.

The scheme consists of installing electric heating devices in the heavy glass-encased safety islands upon which cops stand during the day and which are illuminated from the inside with red lights at night.

Traffic officers at the few intersections where the device is in use say it is like standing on top of a warm stove.

Police to Carry Tiny Radio Sets

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan. 21.—Equipment of the police of the city with tiny radio receiving sets no larger than the average package of 20 cigarettes, will begin within four or five days. The entire department will be outfitted. The outfit includes a set of collapsible ear phones and the patrolman's badge is an aerial. Twinkling of a red light on the sleeve indicates headquarters is about to broadcast.

QUESTION SISLER'S VALUE

What will be the value of George Sisler to the St. Louis Browns the coming season? There are plenty of baseball men who figure a trade, sending him elsewhere, would benefit the club in more ways than one. It is believed that the disposing of Sisler as manager is certain to handicap his work as a mere player on the club he once directed.

Annie Fanning, an 11-year-old girl in London's orphan's school, has written so charming a carol, both words and music, that Sir H. Walford Davies, the eminent composer, described it as extremely beautiful and has had it broadcast by wireless.

50-Mile Speeder Starts Jail Term

Pleading guilty to a charge of speeding, 50 miles an hour, on the Irvine boulevard, on January 2, H. C. Smith, 1515 East Eleventh street, Long Beach, yesterday was sentenced to serve five days in the county jail. He started sentence last night. Smith was arrested by Ole Buer, state traffic officer.

VAUGHN'S CONDITION REPORTED IMPROVED

The condition of Frank Vaughn, member of the Orange county state traffic squad, in a Los Angeles hospital suffering from injuries to one leg, received last summer when he was knocked from his motorcycle by an automobile, on the Newport road, today was reported as improved.

Fear that Vaughn would not recover was expressed several weeks ago, when blood poisoning developed in the limb. According to officers who visited him yesterday, Vaughn's condition appeared greatly improved, but it will be necessary for surgeons to amputate the leg.

Vaughn has been in the hospital since last August.

PETITION IS FILED TO PROBATE WILL

Mrs. Alice Sturgeon, of Santa Ana, has petitioned superior court to probate the will of her husband, the late D. W. Sturgeon, who died January 15.

The probate proceedings are concerned only with personal property, valued at $1307, including cash, residence furnishings and office furniture. Extensive realty holdings were held in joint-tenancy with Mrs. Sturgeon, it is said, therefore being excluded from the portion of the estate being probated.

The Sturgeon will leaves the bulk of the property to the widow with $2000 bequests to each of five daughters, Mrs. Grace Lowman Arn, of Maybell; Mrs. Audrey Martin and Mrs. Frances MacMullan, of Santa Ana; Mrs. Zelma Hostetter, of Costa Mesa, and Mrs. Eleanor Payne, of New York City; also $2000 to Kate Richards, of Santa Ana, sister of Mrs. Sturgeon. Attorneys Head, Rutan and Scovel represent the petitioner.

HIGHLIGHTS ON DR. RYLAND'S KIWANIS CLUB ADDRESS

With the Kiwanis club address of Dr. E. P. Ryland, against capital punishment and in favor of the parole system, fresh in the minds of those who heard it or read the report of it, will find added interest and significance in a report which came this morning from the office of the California high engineer at Sacramento.

Two of the three California prison road camps of the highway commission were operated for the entire year of 1926 without a single attempt upon the part of a convict to escape, and in the third camp only two of the four attempts were successful. This remarkable record, the best in the history of the camps, is noted by Ben H. Milliken, superintendent, in his annual summary of activities just filed with State Highway Engineer R. M. Morton.

The two camps with a record of no escapes were those operating on the Redwood highway, in Del Norte county, and on the Tahoe-Ukiah highway, in Lake county. Despite the fact that the Del Norte camp is located on a main artery of travel, it is now two years since there has been a single attempt to escape, Milliken said.

During the year 1926, there were four attempts to escape among the prisoners working on the Yosemite highway in the Marcedo canyon, Mariposa county, but two of these were recaptured, leaving a net loss of men during the year at two. This number, it is pointed out, is less than the escapes from many prisons. The number of men passing through the camps during the year was approximately 800.

In giving out this report, Highway Commissioner Baumgartner called attention to the fact that it supported Dr. Ryland's advocacy of the parole system.

"Of course," said Mr. Baum-

Santa Ana, January 21.

Dear Lois:

Yesterday I wasted several minutes looking out of the window, watching the mail carriers come from the post office with their packs of mail, rubbers and slickers, preparing to start on another round of mail delivery. It is wonderful, isn't it, to think that rain or shine, hot or cold, those same carriers go forth twice daily delivering mail.

It is a subject about which much can be imagined. Can't you imagine some lonely old lady sitting by a window waiting for a letter from son or daughter, who is probably far away. Or it might be a little girl waiting for word from her 'daddy,' who is away for a while. And it might be a little old man, who has put all his earnings into some worthless stock and who is awaiting advice from his lawyer.

And speaking of mail reminds me of Dixie. Just yesterday, I received an awfully sweet letter from her. She is having a wonderful time in New York. At Christmas, though, she went to an aunt's home. The aunt lives in a sort of wonderful home up the Hudson and Dixie was thrilled to pieces with her visit. She stayed until after New Year's.

While there, she met a fascinating man, according to her account, who took a great interest in her. He is a lot older than Dixie and is greatly traveled. It was amusing to read Dixie's account of his interest in her. She said that she had often read of girls marrying elderly men who adored them to their dying days, so she decided that it would be nice to marry Mr. Barnes. She deliberately tried to vamp him and thought how well she had succeeded, as he was around all of the time ready to fulfill her slightest wish.

And then she decided that a proper place for him to propose would be in a perfectly beautiful room which overlooked the river, so she persuaded him to go up there with her one afternoon and did her best to make him propose. He didn't seem to grasp her idea and she couldn't wonder what was the matter.

However, she soon found out, for, as she sat there gazing out the window, he exclaimed: "Hold that pose just a moment, Miss Rhodes. You know, I think that when my daughter is your age, she will look remarkably like you!"

Poor Dixie, for once her well-laid plans went astray for her would-be husband was already married to a beautiful wife who at the time was in Europe with their two children. I guess it was good for her, though, because I think that it is too easy for her to persuade a man to propose to her. For instance, look what she did to Jack. He looks cheerful, but I know he is awfully grieved about their affairs and here is Dixie writing about love affairs that she is having in the east. Somehow it isn't like her, do you think?

At present I am regretting many needless expenditures at Christmas time, for as the spring materials arrive in Santa Ana and merchants put them in their windows, I positively suffer because I cannot even buy one dress and they have such darling ones, too.

I think that about the prettiest are the figured taffeta ones. I have seen some that are in tiny pink, lavender or blue checks, made with tight waists and full skirts that are most attractive. I think that they would be the kind that Spring herself would wear to make her debut in.

It rained yesterday in a most unhappy manner. I wish that the raindrops would have cheered up and fallen as if they truly cared about it. You see I am partial to dancing raindrops, not slow, sad ones. And seeing the clouds reminded me of a poem I read recently about their being fairy washings hanging out to dry. I guess yesterday was wash day for the old fairies for no young ones would wear such plain gray colors, in fact, I think that only Puritan fairies would.

But this is enough for today. Love, Louise.

GIRL'S CONDITION REPORTED BETTER

The condition of Jean Brunswick, 20-year-old divorcee, who was reported dangerously ill following an alleged criminal attack by Edward Driscoll, of Huntington Beach, on January 13, today was reported by her physician as noticeably improved.

Driscoll is being held in the county jail under $25,000 bail in connection with a statutory charge, his bail being increased from $10,000 when it was learned that the girl might not recover.

The physician's statement today showed that the girl "had the best night's rest so far" and secured a little sleep; also that she was able to take some nourishment, the first in several days. Her throat condition, said to have resulted from exposure, was improved and her temperature, recently running high, had dropped to some extent. It was said that her prospects for recovery now are much brighter.

A companion of Driscoll, said to have been involved in an attack upon a 17-year-old Anaheim girl, had not been apprehended today, it was announced.

IN DESPAIR OVER PIMPLY, RED SKIN ITCHED AND BURNED— UGLY TO LOOK AT

Healed at last, quickly and easily

Charlotte, Mich., Oct. 21:—"I have been a sufferer from a most unsightly skin disorder, my face being full of pimples and blackheads and my complexion was very muddy. It was very ugly to look at as it was red and fiery and it annoyed me by itching and burning. I tried many treatments, but got no relief. When I was a small baby I had eczema on my body and my mother used Resinol Ointment on it and she recommended it to me at this time. In desperation I decided to send for a sample of Resinol. After using the sample I bought more Resinol as I was convinced it was a splendid remedy. After I had applied it four times, the pimples began to heal and at the end of two weeks they had entirely disappeared. Now I have such confidence in Resinol Ointment I would not be without it." POGO LOSES FRONT LEGS AND RETIRES

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Pogo, the first comic pantomime horse, has lost his front legs. Fred Griffiths, Pogo's creator and main prop, has retired after 67 years on the stage. Pogo has appeared all over the world. He has made Queen Mary rock with laughter and the king used to have him perform at Windsor on special occasions. The Prince of Wales often said he preferred to see Pogo's equestrian performances to sure-enough circus animals. "Pogo's success," said Griffiths, "was largely due to the fact that his head really looked like a horse, while his body and feet—well, I was the forepart. The hind legs were my sons."

The thrill of "going into Etons," which used to be reserved for young schoolboys, is now shared by the young woman of fashion, who is adopting a cute little Eton jacket, usually of velvet, as the latest slip-on garment for the house.

Find Skeleton In Stone Age Ruins

NAIROBI, Africa, Jan. 21.—L. S. Leaky, of the Cutler Dinosaur expedition, who is making investigations into Stone Age remains, has discovered a complete human skeleton at Nakuru buried in the pre-natal position with the chin on the knees, at the 12-foot level. The skeleton is that of a six-foot man, and buried with it are over 100 stone tools, mainly Mesolithic.

The skeleton is not negroid, and the skull has a nose of medium width and is not prognathous. The tools are mostly lunates (crescentshaped) and backed points of obsidian, with a few bone points. Leaky says that the man undoubtedly belongs to the Wayland-Magnesian period of Uganda. He has invited Mr. Wayland, the Uganda government geologist, to assist him in fixing the date of the deposits.

Reichstag Boosts Aid for Jobless

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—The budget committee of the reichstag has approved the increase from 60,000,000 marks to 100,000,000 marks of the supplementary expenditures on ordinary (as distinct from "productive") unemployment relief. This brings the total sum under this head up to 300,000,000 marks ($75,000,000).

The returns of unemployed persons in receipt of relief during the second fortnight of November show an increase of 53,000, or 4 per cent. Between November 15 and December 1 the total number increased from 1,316,000 to 1,369,000, and the number of dependents in receipt of allowances from 1,391,000 to 1,461,000.

During the month of November, the number of unemployed in receipt of relief increased by 61,000, or 4.7 per cent. Up to the beginning of November it had been diminishing steadily since April.

CLASS OF 103 STUDENTS WILL RECEIVE JUNIOR HIGH DIPLOMAS

Certificates to Be Given At Exercises Scheduled For Next Friday Night

PROGRAM ARRANGED IN MID-YEAR EVENT

Willard and Lathrop Pupils Will Be Promoted To Polytechnic School

A class of 103 students from the Santa Ana city junior high schools will be awarded their certificates of promotion in exercises to be held in the auditorium of the senior high school, next Friday night. Parents and friends of the students are expected to fill the hall to capacity.

This mid-year class is as large as the usual January graduation class, it was said.

Thirty-eight students of the Frances Willard junior high school and 65 students of the Julia C. Lathrop junior high will be promoted. The exercises for the students will include the presentation of the Frances Willard class by Principal W. S. Kellogg and the presentation of the Julia Lathrop class by Principal H. G. Nelson.

Principal D. K. Hammond, of the senior high school, will receive the students into the higher institution.

The certificates of promotion are to be awarded by J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools.

Details of the graduation exercises are being arranged by Miss Veda M. Ball, class teacher at the Frances Willard junior high school. According to plans, there will be no speakers at the promotion, but instead students of the two schools will offer a program of musical numbers.

The first event of the promotion will be the baccalaureate service, in the First Methodist church, next Sunday night, at 7 o'clock. Class day programs and other special events will be held during next week to honor the students.

DAYS OF RATS IN HAIR PAST BAKERSFIELD WOMEN UP IN (CH)AIR DAYS OF MICE IN VEST HERE

BY E. MERLE HUSSONG

Bakersfield citizens are alarmed over the mice problem. One can hardly expect Bakersfield women to stay on chairs day and night.

They want something done—and don't care whether their action is ratified or not.

They don't like to refer to the best districts of Bakersfield as the rodential districts.

They don't like to appear pestiferous.

Judging from the effect of the mice, the Bakersfield people must have been taking a cat nap.

Furthermore, it is not comforting to the Bakersfield natives to know there are so many squeak-easies right in their home town.

If the real estate men could be induced to hold a convention in Bakersfield, perhaps the invasion would be repelled by the gas attack.

Gas has been outlawed by the major powers, but in this case it is too mice a problem to be totally ignored. One could easily fall into that trap.

Bakersfield is in the oil district. Perhaps the rodents could be maintained for a couple of months on the worthless stocks.

The wildcat stock especially should be effective.

When the leading citizens up there hang up their clothes at night, they are awakened by a chorus singing: "My Little Gray Home in Your Vest."

Judging from the speed the mice are making toward the Bakersfield city limits, one might think the principal business was cheese-making. Bakersfield probably would like to cheese the whole touring crop.

Suggestion for Bakersfield hostesses:

Engrave your dinner invitations with "B. Y. O. M. T."—"Bring your own mouse trap."

WAIT! IT'S WAY YOU WEIGH NOT THE WAY YOU WAIT TO WEIGH THAT WEIGHS WEIGHTY

Some people weigh more, others weigh less, but it's the way that you have about you that counts.

Since girth control encircled the world's waist, pounds count more than personality, say Santa Ana representatives of those cute little weighing machines. That is, the women think of more their weight than their way.

What's more, there now are nearly 50 public scales, of high and low degree, in Santa Ana, to give the women the glad or sad news.

Since the boyish figure became the feminine ideal, the number of scales in the city has almost doubled. And the men aren't so far behind in their desire to keep tab on their shifting pounds, but with the male line health, not lines, is the chief concern.

In the days of crinolines and hoop skirts, six pounds deducted from the scale confession of a woman, minus her wraps, gave an accurate total of her actual weight when in her stocking feet, it was declared.

The following weigh information is also volunteered:

Nowadays three pounds is the average weight of a woman's wardrobe of step-ins, brassiere, dress, hose and shoes.

COUNTY ORANGE SHOW BOOTH TO BE ELABORATE

Mechanical Figure, Set in Regal Splendor of Fruit, Will Be Exhibit Feature

A symbolical setting of Miss Orange County as beauty herself, reflecting the prosperity and happiness of this section in a great mirror, set in regal splendor of golden fruit, has been selected as the design for the Orange county exhibit at the national orange show, this year, in San Bernardino. Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, president of the Orange County Commercial Secretaries' association, said today.

The design, hailed by the secretaries as the most beautiful of all Orange booths, was submitted by Charles L. Farber, of the Artcraft Decorators, Los Angeles. It will occupy a space 20 feet wide by 20 feet long and the central figure will be 19 feet high.

Miss Orange County will be dressed in a resplendent peacock robe. In her left hand will rest a gorgeous fan, which will move back and forth. The head also will move. The dome canopy, drapes, floor and stairs will be formed solidly of golden oranges. The carpet also will be made of oranges, lemons and grape fruit.

The center frieze will be illuminated with a background of artificial flowers, the design indicated.

Five classic bronze figures will guard the throne of Miss Orange county. Around the base the name of each Orange county city will be spelled in letters formed of fruit. Pictures of the communities, stressing the splendid highways of the county, will be artistically set in.

The money for the display was provided by the county supervisors from the advertising fund. The display is not the same as will be shown at the Anaheim Valencia Orange show, Dr. Slabaugh said.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS ARE PREPARING FOR PRODUCTION OF SEASON'S FIRST EFFORT

Here is pictured a dramatic moment between the two principals in the Community Players first production of the season, "Enter Madame," to open February 1 for a four-night run in the Temple theater. Mona Summers Smith is shown as "Madame Lisa Della Robbia," temperamental opera star, while Warren Fletcher is "Gerald Fitzgerald," her almost-divorced husband.

COUNTY POLICE TO HOLD MEET IN BEACH CITY

Engraved invitations were received today by peace officers throughout the county from the city of Huntington Beach, inviting the officers to the February meeting of the Orange county Peace Officers' association.

The invitations were signed by C. G. Boster, mayor of the beach city, and by the members of the city council. The invitations read as follows:

"The people of the city of Huntington Beach appreciate this opportunity of giving public expression to the gratitude we hold and bear toward the peace officers of our city, our county and of our neighboring counties, for their courageous, loyal and efficient service rendered by them for the protection of our lives, our homes and our property; and so declare to all peace officers our abiding faith in their integrity and conscientious performance of their official duties."

Approximately 100 members of the association are expected to attend the meeting of the officers in the beach city, according to a statement made today by Herman Zabel, of the sheriff's office, president of the organization.

The meeting is scheduled for February 2, in the city auditorium, Huntington Beach, and will open with a dinner, to be furnished by the city.

'Enter Madame' to Be Presented 4 Nights First Week in February

In a little less than two weeks, the curtain will rise, in the Temple theater, on the opening performance of the opening play of the Santa Ana Community Players' season. The Players will make their bow on Tuesday night, February 1, in Gilda Varese's amusing comedy drama, "Enter Madame."

Rehearsals for "Enter Madame" are of nightly occurrence in the pleasant little theater, which the Players have leased for the season. Of almost nightly occurrence, too, are the meetings of the scenery committee, whose members, under Mrs. Marshall Harnois, are building the necessary scenery for the various rooms in an apartment hotel, in which the action takes place.

Is Amusing Story
The story of "Enter Madame" is an amusing one and, when presented by the capable cast selected by George Gerwing, director of the Players, promises an evening of enjoyment to all patrons. All members of the Community Players' association congratulate themselves upon having secured Gerwing to direct the season's offerings since it was impossible for the former director, Ernest Crozier Phillips, to continue with the work.

The two had worked together in so many of the previous plays given locally that the Players are thoroughly familiar with their methods and respond with the best performance humanly possible to give.

The Temple theater, where the succession of plays will be presented, recently was given a thorough overhauling by indefatigable members of the organization, who made afternoon and evening "housecleaning parties" very merry events, indeed, and valuable in their results.

Four-Night Run
"Enter Madame" will have a four-night run—Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of the first week in February. Gerwing has announced an interesting cast, in which the role of "Madame" will be taken by Mona Summers Smith, star in "Three Wise Fools."

"Gerald," the husband of the temperamental diva of the title role, will be played by Warren Fletcher, who has been playing "Gerald" in the previous plays.

The special entertainment program consisted of songs and dances by the "McOwen Kiddies," two little girls who are clever in presentation of their numbers. The girls are nieces of Andy Anderson, a member of the club. They are well known to Santa Ana audiences having appeared here in vaudeville and before the Lions and other clubs.

It was announced that women would be guests of the club at the February 10 meeting.

LIONS HEAR OF CONDITIONS IN FOREIGN LANDS

Service clubs have the major work to do in creating conditions throughout the world that eventually will effect permanent world peace, in the opinion of Ralph W. Hollinger, secretary of the field staff of the Y. M. C. A., with headquarters at Geneva, Switzerland.

Hollinger has been in Europe the last five years, and his work has given him splendid opportunity for observation of conditions in the different countries there.

Discussing at the meeting yesterday of the Lions club the subject of "Reconstruction in Europe" Hollinger recited the factors of variety of languages, monetary standards, and government management by peasants in new territories created after the World war, as more or less responsible for conditions existing overseas, the Y. M. C. A. secretary pointed to the service clubs, radio, fast transportation and religious training as influences that are working for world peace, with every indication pointing to ultimate success of the peace movement.

He said that the English language was now being taught more generally in all countries than any of the foreign languages, with French, German and Russian ranking next in the order named. A more universal language, he believes, will be very helpful in bringing the countries into closer relationship and to better understanding.

T. F. Ham, vice president of the club, presided at the meeting, with George Platt officiating as program chairman.

PROPOSED BILL WOULD BLOCK LOOP HOLES IN ARTESIAN LAW

COVERS FIELD OF ARTIFICIAL WELLS

Sportsmen Expected to Offer Strong Opposition to Action Against Gun Clubs

Designed to eliminate loop holes in the present law relating to waste of artesian water and providing drastic measures for the enforcement of tightened regulations, a bill fostered by the Orange County Farm Bureau and the Orange County Flood Control associations has been forwarded to Assemblyman C. D. Ball, in Sacramento, with the request that it be introduced at the present session of the state legislature.

Covering the entire field of "artificial" wells, instead of merely artesian wells, the measure reduces the number of "beneficial uses" of water, now excepted from the present act as legal, and limits such uses solely to domestic use and irrigation. Even these uses are limited to one-tenth of one miner's inch per month, except in the case of municipal wells.

A new feature of the proposed measure is the power of search and seizure and the right of injunction. Where the present artesian act merely provides power to punish violations of the law, without halting waste of water, this new measure would make violations of its provisions a public nuisance and would place in the hands of the authorities the power to prevent such waste by injunctive proceedings.

Provides For Search
It empowers justices of the peace to issue search warrants for the location of wells upon private property, where there is ground for belief that waste is going on. It also places upon the shoulders of peace officers the duty and obligation of taking charge of such wells and their equipment and stopping the flow of water from them.

Under this measure, the power of search would be enlarged. It now covers only cases of stolen property and liquor. At present, search warrants may not be issued for any other purpose.

The measure proposed by the farm bureau and flood control organization changes the construction of the present artesian act to eliminate the definition of waste, as a legal term. The new measure devotes itself exclusively to prohibiting "unnecessary flow." Such beneficial uses as "propagation of fish," now excepted from the provisions of the artesian act, would be eliminated. No restriction would be placed upon the flow of water from municipal wells for municipal purposes, but otherwise the only use that could be made of water from any kind of a well would be domestic and the irrigation of crops.

Under the present conditions, artesian wells are the only kind under legal restriction. It is pointed out, any well equipped with a pump may be allowed to flow continuously, without violation of a law. The new measure, applying to all "artificial" wells, would govern both artesian flow and pumped water, it is said.

Car Shortage Overcome by Co-operation

The Santa Fe gives this a practical demonstration in 1926. You are invited to read this account of an achievement which saved Santa Fe patrons millions of dollars.

Five years ago one of the most serious transportation problems was the handling of very heavy freight traffic resulting from unusually large production and requiring prompt movement to secure favorable markets.

Even though the railroads did their best, car shortage and congestion were the natural results of such peak movements. And because of this slowing up everybody suffered. Such losses involved not only large sums of money, but partial paralysis of business. These transportation enemies now have been overcome.

To illustrate, the Santa Fe in June and July, 1926, had an enormous wheat crop to handle from Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas to the big markets. To provide for prompt handling 12,500 box cars in first-class condition had been distributed on sidetracks in the territory where they would be needed.

The demand for cars, however, resulting mainly from the use of "combines,"—which converted wheat standing in the field in the morning into wheat ready for loading in the afternoon,—was largely in excess of what had been anticipated.

For fifty days the average wheat loading was 1,050 cars per day, exceeding all previous records by 84 per cent, with one single day's maximum loading of 1,569 cars.

This huge crop, notwithstanding the new and rapid method of harvesting, was moved with a negligible car shortage, without congestion, and with little or no delay, something never before accomplished under similar car-loading demands.

What made such a result possible? Co-operation of everyone interested and the loyal and efficient work of Santa Fe employees.

To meet the crisis the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association, with the consent of other railroads, diverted to the Santa Fe every available box car at Chicago regardless of ownership.

The Santa Fe also had the most hearty and helpful co-operation of Regional Advisory Boards, Terminal and Port Committees, State Grain Inspector Departments, State Railway Commissions, and the United States Shipping Board. Shippers and receiver of wheat also helped. And there was the wholehearted support of its own employees.

This is a practical and convincing proof that co-operation can meet every transportation demand, eliminate car shortage and congestion, and save producers and shippers hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

The Santa Fe wishes to express its sincere appreciation of this co-operation and of the efficient and loyal service of its employees.

'FLAMING FRONTIER' AT WALKER THEATER

Stirring Drama of 1876 Is Presented by Notables Of Screen World

"The Flaming Frontier," the production now the attraction at the West Coast-Walker theater, is a picture play that in addition to commemorating a great event in American history abounds in excellent acting in a story featured with a pretty romance, side-splitting comedy and situations that are as tremendous and thrilling as they are unusual.

The story is of the period of the early seventies and has for its big theme the winning of the west and the hardships and trials that beset the settlers of those days. It faithfully depicts the resentment of the Indians, the political intrigues at Washington and climaxes in a thrilling and spectacular reproduction of the Custer massacre. One of its very powerful touches are the scenes showing life at West Point in the period.

"Hoot" Gibson, famous western "ace," is cast in a most congenial role. Gibson is an army scout, and as such does some of his remarkable feats in the saddle. The picture also allows Gibson to show his versatility as, for a time, it takes him away from his horse and sets him down as a cadet at West Point.

Dustin Farnum is cast in the heroic role of Gen. Custer. Dainty Anne Cornwall, as the heroine, again shows that she is a great success. Ward Crane is the "heavy." Kathleen Key makes an alluring vamp, though the vamp redeems herself at the end of the picture. Eddie Brubaker and Harry Todd provide many a laugh.

In conjunction with this foremost Western thriller, will be offered several acts of highly entertaining vaudeville selected by Fanchon and Marco especially for this program. Some of the leading artists are: Walter Beaton, the eminent Scotch character singer; Will Cowan, a boy that can step; Clifford and Stafford in an art fantasy act that is entertaining; and Gill and Warren, two ebony knights who furnish a surprising amount of mirth.

The ever-smiling Way Watts with his versatile bunch of gloom chasing musicians will augment the bill.

Elections Will Be Held In India In Good Weather

NAIROBI, Jan. 21.—A special issue of the Official Gazette announces the dissolution of the legislature, on January 21, with elections for the European, Indian and Arab seats on the following day. This anticipates the normal dates of the elections by about two months, but allows them to take place in the most favorable weather conditions before the break of the rains.

AT THE THEATERS

The Servent twins and members of the Jazz Pirate company, vaudeville entertainers now appearing at the Yost Broadway theater.

YOST THEATER

The soul regenerating influence of a lonely life on the edge of the great Sahara desert, under the desperate discipline of the famous French Foreign Legion and the constant harrying of fierce Riff tribesmen, is vividly portrayed in Milton Sills' picture, "The Silent Lover," the current attraction at the Yost theater.

Pulsating with hard-riding action of the most thrilling variety, punctuated with treason and intrigue and brimming with novel twists of plot and turns of sympathy, there is still ample room in the story for not only one but three romances involving the fate of the handsome young hero who, after a bad start, regenerates himself in a most amazing way among the Moroccan foothills.

Sills, with the professional generosity for which he has come to be famous, shares much of the important action of the picture with his associate artists—Natalie Kingston, Arthur Edmund Carew, William V. Mong, Viola Dana, Claude King, Charlie Murray, Arthur Stone, Alma Bennett and Montague Love.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Far from the well worn path of conventions; far from the cut and dried feature production; ultra modern in every respect is "Pals in Paradise," the picture showing at the Yost Broadway tonight and tomorrow.

Peter B. Kyne, who knows his west, deserted the well beaten paths in writing "Pals in Paradise" and as brought to his readers a new west—the west of today. Rudolph Schildkraut, Marguerite De La Motte, May Robson, John Bowers and Alan Brooks have the featured roles.

WEIGHT FAD WILL NOT BE WAYLAI

average of twice a week. Some every day.

Even the modern child shows a great interest in the number of pounds he carries, whereas some years ago people paid little attention to such things.

Some persons spend four and five cents a day keeping tab on their varying ounces. One-eighth of the people of the United States is overweight to such an extent that health is menaced. Thousands of women and girls are undermining their health in their efforts to wear size 16 dresses.

Up to the age of 30, it is well to weigh from five to 10 pounds more than the average for your age and height in order to fortify your body against infection.

Excess weight in people older than 30 is a danger signal. Here are a few suggestions on how to keep accurate count of your weight:

Always test your weight before meals.

After meals you generally weigh from one and one-half to three pounds more.

If testing your weight is one of your chronic afflictions use the same scales all the time.

Remember that overcoats weigh from five to 10 pounds.

If the arrow on the dial is pointing toward the zero line, then the scale is correct and your 150 pounds is that and no less.

Measure Would Block Loop Holes In Artesian Law

this county, the measure is expected to encounter bitter opposition in the legislature from the sporting fraternity. Word already has been received from Assemblyman Ball, it is said, expressing doubt as to the advisability of trying to secure passage of the bill. It is not known as yet what course the assemblyman has decided to pursue.

D. G. Wettlin, former deputy district attorney, is author of the bill, having been retained by the farm bureau and the flood control association for that purpose. Wettlin made an exhaustive study of the water question, from the legal standpoint, while in the district attorney's office and last fall had charge of the successful prosecutions of the gun clubs, which attracted wide attention because, therefore, the gun clubs had been uniformly successful in defeating prosecutions under the artesian act.

From his observation of weakness in the present act, Wettlin is said to have framed the new measure proposed by the farm bureau and flood control association. George L. Bates, of Orange, chairman of the flood control committee, is one of the active workers for new legislation.

Wettlin today admitted that the proposed bill probably would strike stubborn opposition in the legislature and that every possible influence would be mobilized to defeat it.

"But if they want the waste of water stopped, this measure will stop it," he stated.

HAYAKAWA TO PLAY AT YOST BROADWAY

Noted Japanese Actor Will Open Three-Day Stand Here on Sunday

Sessue Hayakawa, noted Japanese screen and stage star, will appear in "The Bandit Prince," a vaudeville sketch, at the Yost Broadway theater here Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Manager E. D. Yost announced today.

"The Bandit Prince" is his first vaudeville act in this country and he is meeting with solid support both from the movie and the two-day fans. The little play deals with the clash of east and west in Paris when the old regime in China opposed by the young reformers of the new republic. It is said to be an exciting, cosmopolitan story moving with breathless speed to great issue.

Hayakawa was schooled to be a statesman and after a rigid classical education in Japan he was sent to the University of Chicago. After graduation he was sent to Los Angeles and there organized a theatrical comedy of Japanese. In 1913 he played the leading role in "The Typhoon."

Then came the movies which he has followed with world-wide success for nearly 15 years with occasional interludes in the spoken drama. His first photoplays were "The Cheat," "The First Born" and "The Tong Man." He has been starred or featured in a long series of cinema bits which have made him famous.

In 1922 he went with the Shuberts in speaking roles playing "The Tiger Lily." Last winter he backed himself in "The Love City" which had a short run on Broadway.

SERVICES IN L. A. FOR ROLENE ESTES

Funeral services for Rolene Estes, 9, daughter of Mrs. May Estes, former Santa Ana woman, were held yesterday afternoon in Los Angeles, with interment in the Hollywood cemetery.

The Estes child died in the home of her mother, in Los Angeles, Tuesday.

The Estes family formerly lived at 417 South Sycamore street Santa Ana, moving to Los Angeles about eight months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dowell, 510 South Main street, returned here last night after attending the funeral services.

Police News

Two automobiles were reported stolen from Anaheim streets last night. Descriptions of the machines were received by the Santa Ana sheriff's office and the police station here. One of the machines was the property of R. R. Fiscus, 424 North Los Angeles street, Anaheim, and the other was owned by D. W. Robinson, 600 South Emily street, Anaheim.

Manuel Zepeda, 22, El Modena, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Bartley and is being held in the county jail on suspicion.

MORE CARS NEEDED TO TAKE YOUNG CHORISTERS TO L. A. FOR SATURDAY RADIO EVENT

"Cars! Cars! Cars!"

That subject was very much on the mind of Bob Fernandez today as he thought of the prospect of transporting 80 members of the Santa Ana Boys' chorus to Los Angeles tomorrow evening in 15 automobiles, some of which can accommodate but three singers each. The chorus will broadcast over K H J, the Times' radio station.

"Cars! Cars! Cars!"

"We must have at least 15 more cars with drivers, or some of those 80 boys will be left behind," the chairman of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce transportation committee said. "The boys have looked forward for weeks to the Los Angeles broadcast and have worked hard to perfect their singing. They deserve the trip and the program will prove a splendid thing for the chorus and for Santa Ana."

"Cars! Cars! Cars!"

Fernandez requested those persons who can provide cars to communicate with him at the office of the Tiernan Typewriter company. If he cannot be reached at that place, he asked that the name of the persons who will drive the car and the number of passengers that can be accommodated be left at that office.

The start is to be at 5:30 o'clock from Walnut street, in front of the Santa Ana polytechnic high school. Because of the traffic conditions in Los Angeles and because the trip must be made at a very safe rate of travel, Fernandez said that an early start was required. The program will begin shortly after 8 o'clock and continue to 9 o'clock.

"Cars! Cars! Cars!" concluded the chairman of the transportation committee.

TRAFFIC COPS ASK ABOUT INSURANCE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Jan. 21.—Have you any liability insurance?

It's the latest question which traffic cops are asking of motorists who have accidents in Colorado Springs, as the result of instructions issued by Chief H. D. Harper of the police department, who holds a theory that insured drivers are more careful.

At the last meeting of the National Safety council, held in Washington, where Secretary Hoover presided, Chief Harper advanced his views that a large percentage of motorists who are in accidents do not carry liability insurance. Secretary Hoover upheld Harper in his views and now the chief is after data to present to the international convention of police chiefs, which is to be held next summer in Windsor, Canada.

JAGIANS WILL HOLD FATHER, SON MEET

Bruce E. Switzer, chairman of the next meeting of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce, today announced that the next meeting of the junior division would be for fathers and sons.

"I want every member, new and old, to bring his son with him," declared Switzer this morning. "If you have no son, find somebody else's son and bring him along."

"We want to make this meeting one of the liveliest and most interesting ever held and in order to do so we are going to allow the boys to put on the program. We are going to call on the boys for songs, speeches or anything they can do."

The members of the entertainment committee for the next meeting include, besides Switzer, Theodore Hunter, V. L. Clem, Jim Anderson and R. A. Hockaday.

INSTALLATION IS POSTPONED BY DAUGHTERS

Santa Ana parlor, No. 235, Native Daughters of the Golden West, was obliged to postpone its installation of officers last night until the next meeting, which will be held on Tuesday, February 1.

Visitors present to assist in installation were Mrs. Bertha Hitt, district deputy grand president; Mrs. Fannie McPherson, new president of Long Beach, No. 154; and Mrs. Geneva Johnson, Mrs. Rose Ford, Mrs. Lenora Dodd, Mrs. Lucretia Coates and Mrs. Klitty Dillon, of Long Beach parlor.

Fifty members were present in El Camino hall for the meeting and one application was received, that of Miss Gladys Bertha Young.

Among the reports presented was that of Mrs. J. E. Pleasant, chairman of history and landmarks, who reported on the fund being raised for the parlor's part in building the baptistry in San Juan Capistrano mission, in which the Native Sons are participating. Mrs. Pleasant invited the members to attend the next meeting of the Orange County Historical society, January 31, in the Elbell clubhouse, when Mrs. Florence Dodson Scheneman, of Los Angeles, will deliver an address. She is a well known Native Daughter.

$67,000,000 TO BE SPENT BY SANTA FE

According to an announcement made today, in Los Angeles, by General Manager W. K. Etter, of the Santa Fe, this company will expend, for general improvements, in 1927, approximately $67,000,000. Of this sum, $27,500,000 will be set aside for general additions and betterments, including 60 new locomotives, one of the largest single orders for motive power ever placed by the Santa Fe.

Initial equipment purchases will consist of 3200 new freight cars, 58 passenger cars and three gas-electric cars, the latter for branch line operation.

Approximately 592 miles of rail will be replaced with the new 110-lb. type, adopted some time ago by the Santa Fe as a standard for its trans-continental lines, practically all of which will be laid on the double or alternate track between Chicago and California.

Construction of a large fire-proof hotel, to be built in the Grand canyon, also will be undertaken in the near future, this improvement being necessary to properly accommodate the increasing popularity of that year-round resort.

Ship Sets Slow Voyage Record

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—A record for slow voyages and bad luck was established when a Norwegian ship completed a trip from Norway to San Francisco in 15 months. The City of Nome left Oslo, Norway, Sept. 14, 1925, a self-respecting cargo carrier. She was towed, a helpless liability, from Salina Cruz, Mex., to her destination.

The climax of bad luck came when the ship was libeled for a $600 bill, allegedly owed for provisions obtained in Norway.

Reports of its checkered wake won for the City of Nome the name of mystery ship. It was so long overdue at different ports that it was listed missing. The word of officers and crew is that they were victims of bad luck, but nothing mysterious.

Scientists Will Film Saturn As It Passes Moon

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—University of Chicago scientists today made plans to film the planet Saturn just as it slips behind the moon, where it remains for an astronomically important period of 75 seconds, beginning at 5:53 a. m., Friday, January 28. Prof. Frank B. Ross and Director Edwin B. Frost, of the Yerkes observatory, in charge of the movie making on that morning, will use light rays ranging from ultra-violet to infrared, with which they have been experimenting in celestial photography.

HOW U. S. LOST TERRITORY IN MEXICO TOLD

BERKELEY, Jan. 21.—How the United States lost a strip of territory, some 33 miles in width, between Upper and Lower California, through the loss of original documents, has just come to light with the discovery of a cleft stone marker, 30 miles south of La Juana, by Prof. George Hendry, of the University of California.

The stone, formerly a base for a graven wooden cross, which was set as a marker by the Franciscan monk, Palou, founder of the Million Dolores, in San Francisco, designates the original boundary line between the two districts, as authorized by the king of Spain, 153 years ago, in 1773.

Hendry's discovery came as the result of the translation into English of the diary of Friar Palou, written in 1773. Prof. H. E. Bolton, chairman of the department of history at California, translated the notations.

According to the grant, made by the king of Spain, Upper California extended to the Gulf of Lower California, thus allowing entrance into the gulf from the northern territory.

The present boundary line, which was established in 1847 by Nicholas P. Trist, special mediator of the United States, after difficult negotiations with Mexican envoys, following the Mexican war, was at that time believed laid out along the original lines specified by the king of Spain. Mexico refused to allow the United States entrance to the gulf, contending that the marker was not located that far south. Discovery of the marker is hailed as being of greatest historical significance, and a cairn of rock, covering a sealed bottle, containing documents, has been erected on the old stone by the university. Tia Juana lies in that portion of territory, which, had Trist located the marker, would undoubtedly belong to the United States today.

GUARANTEE of FRESHNESS

We guarantee unconditionally the quality and freshness of every package of Snow Flake Bakers' products. If not entirely satisfactory in every way you may return them to your grocer and your money will be refunded.

PACIFIC COAST BISCUIT CO.

FRESHNESS Now Definitely Guaranteed— Another Step Forward in Snow Flake Progress

New wax-wrapped moisture-proof packages assure oven-crispness

ONE of the most striking announcements in the cracker and biscuit industry in many years," says one of the leading food authorities of the country.

We are now wax-wrapping Snow Flakes and other Snow Flake Bakers' Products that these widely known foods may reach your table as crisp, fresh and appetizing as the moment they were packed. We have installed the first battery of wax-wrapping machines in the West and we are pioneering the moisture-proof protection of all packages for the first time anywhere in the nation!

We are extending, too, for the first time in the history of the industry, a definite Guarantee of Freshness. Domestic Science teachers, leading food editors and prominent club women of the West have placed their unqualified endorsement upon this big step forward in food protection.

The quality and uniform goodness of Snow Flakes is zealously guarded. We rigidly adhere to one master formula and one unvarying standard of the purest ingredients we can procure. To maintain a uniform standard of flour every day in the year we own and operate our own wheat fields in a favored Blue Stem district in Eastern Washington and mill this choice wheat by a controlled process.

Six great bakeries bring every home from Alaska to Mexico within a few hours of Snow Flake ovens. This location of nearby plants is in itself a long step toward constant freshness and flaky crispness, but we have now taken even greater precautions by wax-wrapping in moisture-proof packages and giving you complete and absolute protection in our Guarantee of Freshness.

SNOW FLAKE WEEK OPENS SATURDAY!

SNOW FLAKE WEEK—January 22nd to 29th—will be observed in a thousand cities and towns in the West. Ten thousand grocers from Canada to Mexico are joining us to make this coming week a worth-while event to every food buyer. We want you to sample oven-fresh Snow Flakes at your grocers. We want to show you this new packaging development and the genuine value it will be to you in your home. Watch for Snow Flake store and window displays. Remember the dates—January 22nd to 29th.

DEPOSED STARS
SEEM SURE TO BE REINSTATEDReasons for Dismissal of Ty, Tris Will Be Given
At Landis-Johnson MeetBy HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, two of baseball's greatest stars, who were relieved of the management of the Detroit and Cleveland clubs for reasons that have not been made clear, will be playing again next season, but in the National league, it was reported today from several good sources.

In the course of next Monday's battle in Chicago between Commissioner Landis and Ban Johnson, president of the American league, the reasons for their dismissal will have to be given and from the many conflicting statements made by Johnson it seems that the reasons are not serious enough to keep the two stars out of baseball.

Johnson started his latest—and perhaps his last—feud with Landis by making a statement that Cobb and Speaker never would be allowed to play in the American league for several reasons that were known only to the American league owners.

Landis then demanded a meeting with the club owners to get the secret information hinted at by Johnson, and Johnson has been making so many conflicting statements that it looks as if he had no case against the two players or that he is holding out details for the meeting.

Smart baseball men were of the opinion that the meeting Monday will finish the career of Johnson and that Cobb and Speaker will be vindicated or that if Johnson is spared, the two players he accused will be exonerated.

Giants Want Cobb
It was understood that the Giants are interested in the outcome of the case as it concerns Cobb because he would be a great drawing card in New York. At least one other club in the National league is interested in Cobb and Speaker.

It might be considered good politics for the American league to notify the two players that they were qualified to seek other jobs in the American league but it is almost a dead certainty that neither will consider any more American league connections or associations.

GREENLEAF BEHIND
NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Erwin Rudolph led Ralph Greenleaf, world's pocket billiard champion, 154 to 144, at the end of the first block of a match for the title. Rudolph made a high run of 24 and had two scratches while Greenleaf ran 44 and scratched once.

LOCAL COLLEGE
FIVE IN TITLE
FRAY TONIGHT

Santa Ana and Pasadena, long remaining undefeated contenders for the Southern California Junior College conference basketball crown, mingle at Pasadena tonight and the contest will probably decide the 1927 title.

Coach Walter Scott must send his squad into the fracas minus his captain and star guard, Donald ("Squeek") Squires, who was injured in an automobile collision last Monday. Russell Koka, the Dons' other guard, was also on the hospital corps but he has recovered sufficiently to be named along with the other probable starters: Faris Edgar and Frank Labrucherie, forwards; Keith Rogers, center, and James Smith, guard. Smith will replace Captain Squires.

Comparative scores indicate that the rivals are virtually evenly matched although Pasadena will have the advantage of playing on its home floor. Santa Ana defeated San Bernardino 30 to 24 and Pasadena trounced the Gate City five, 25 to 22. Santa Ana won from Chaffey by a 25 to 24 score and Pasadena won by a 31 to 25 margin.

"Slick" Stocks, dusky athlete of whom Santa Ana football players have vivid recollections, is the star of the Pasadena cage five. Santa Ana will utilize the scoring ability of Faris Edgar, stellar Santa Ana forward, to outpoint the Crown City collegians. Edgar is counted on to balance up with Stocks and somewhat square matters in that regard.

UNDEFEATED POLY "BEES" IN ACTION TONIGHT
Another obstacle in the championship path of the Santa Ana high school Class B (130-pound) basketball team will be faced tonight in the second round of the Coast Preparatory league schedule when the Whittier high school lightweight will be met at 8 o'clock in Andrews gymnasium.

The probable Santa Ana lineup will be Orville Schuchardt and Ralph White, forwards; Melvin Beatty, center; and Delmer Brown and Curtis Youel, guards.

So far this season, the Poly "Bees" are undefeated by any team of their class.

Finn Signs With
Missions for 1927
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—"Mickey" Finn has signed a contract to play with the San Francisco Missions again this season. The speedy second baseman is wintering at New York City, his home, but will report when training camp opens, at Stockton.

UPHOLDS FAMILY TRADITION

By BILLY EVANS

St. Louis welcomes the third of the O'Neills into the realms of big league baseball.

When Steve O'Neill, former star backstop of the Cleveland Indians, turned down other big league offers and accepted a contract with the St. Louis Browns he created baseball history.

It is a rather peculiar coincidence that Steve makes the third member of the famous baseball family of that name to wear a St. Louis uniform.

The pages of "Who's Who in Baseball" are turned back many years to find the names and glorious deeds of the other O'Neills.

There were Mike O'Neill and brother Jack, forming the famous battery of that name that starred for the St. Louis Nationals a score of years back.

Put Club Over

Without the O'Neill battery the Cardinals of 1903 and 1904 would have had a tough time meeting hotel bills. The fame of the O'Neill boys, the only brother battery to rate as stars in the majors, was the attraction that put the club over.

Mike was a sensational southpaw of his time, while Jack was one of the outstanding catchers of the National League.

Mike, aside from making plenty of trouble for opposing batsmen, was poison for his pitching rivals.

TROUBLE AHEAD

PAOLINO

Only Paoloino, known as the Basque Woodchopper, remains undefeated among the many foreign heavyweights who recently invaded this country. In all probability Paoloino will shortly meet Jim Maloney of Boston, who of late has been making a specialty of polishing off these foreign champions.

SANTA ANA VARSITY CAGEMEN
DEFEATED BY POETS, 29-14,
BUT POLY 'C' FIVE IS VICTOR

Whittier high school's crack basketball combination, Coast Preparatory league titleholders last winter, experienced little difficulty in capturing its second straight major athletic victory of the season from Santa Ana high school at Whittier last night. The Poets ruined the Poly football squad last fall, 20 to 0, and the Whittier hoop five massacred Coach Bill Foot's cage representatives, 29 to 14.

Coach Lynn Crawford's Class C (110-pound) cagers, however, returned Santa Ana an even break for the evening, the midweek creation running amuck through the ranks of Ye Friendly Towne paperweights for a 21 to 7 triumph.

Miffin and Crooks, veteran forwards, attended to the undoing of the Poly varsity quintette, this pair alone finding the rim for eight field baskets and three free throws. Landreth, Whittier center, also was a continual thorn in Santa Ana's side with four field shots.

Lory Hogue was Poly's chief threat, the curly-haired forward making four baskets, two in each half. Chet Siegel placed two field shots through the rim. Don Smith made the other basket.

Whittier had eight free throws and converted three while Santa Ana failed to make any out of six attempts.

Santa Ana's "C" aggregation got out in front early and remained there, the outcome never being doubtful after the first few minutes of activity.

"DUTCH" HINRICHS TO HURL FOR HARBOR LOOP ALL-STARS

Fred ("Dutch") Hinrichs, former University of Southern California and Irvine semi-pro baseball star, will occupy the turret for the Orange County Harbor league All-stars against Joe Rodgers' undefeated Republic Supply company champions Sunday afternoon, according to George Lackaye, manager of the All-Stars.

Hinrichs, now coaching a high school team at San Fernando, readily consented to come to Irvine, the scene of many of his earlier conquests, and do what he could for the Harbor leaguers who were so rudely smacked down by the Rodgers outfit last Sunday.

Hillard ("Tuffy") Tyrell, well known Santa Ana and Western league star, also is expected to join the Allstars for their second set-to with the Huntington Beach delegation. Tyrell is a tremendous hitter and the Allstars need hitting to cope with the brand of flinging that Herb Salveson, the NORTHWESTERN COACH?

While much secrecy is being maintained as to who will succeed Glenn Thistlethwaite as football coach at Northwestern University, the impression grows that the selection will be a national figure in football circles. Northwestern, after getting a tie with Michigan for the Big Ten title, cannot afford to let down.

LA BARBA AND CLARK BOX IN N. Y. TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Fidel La Barba, flyweight champion, was a 2 to 1 favorite in the betting today to win from Elky Clark, British champion, when they meet tonight in Tex Rickard's Garden.

In compliance with the rules for a championship contest, La Barba, the world champion, and Clark, the challenger, will have to make the division weight of 112 pounds at the office of the New York Boxing commission at 2 p. m.

Some of the short-end bettors were placing a hope in a change of the title on the belief that La Barba would have to weaken himself to make the weight.

Clark spent the night at his training camp in New Jersey and Charles Harvey, his American manager, said he could make the weight easily and would be at his best.

La Barba, who has become quite a vogue in New York as an "unusual type" of the ring, announced definitely that he was going to retire from the ring in a few months regardless of the outcome of tonight's fight.

He has filled out papers for admission to Stanford university next fall and he wants to enter the brokerage business.

any dreading skill, will attract the fans.

He spent four years on the western front with rifle and grenade. He is 39 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 185 pounds. He led the British pros this year for the fourth successive time.

He is to H'land what Hagen is to U. S.

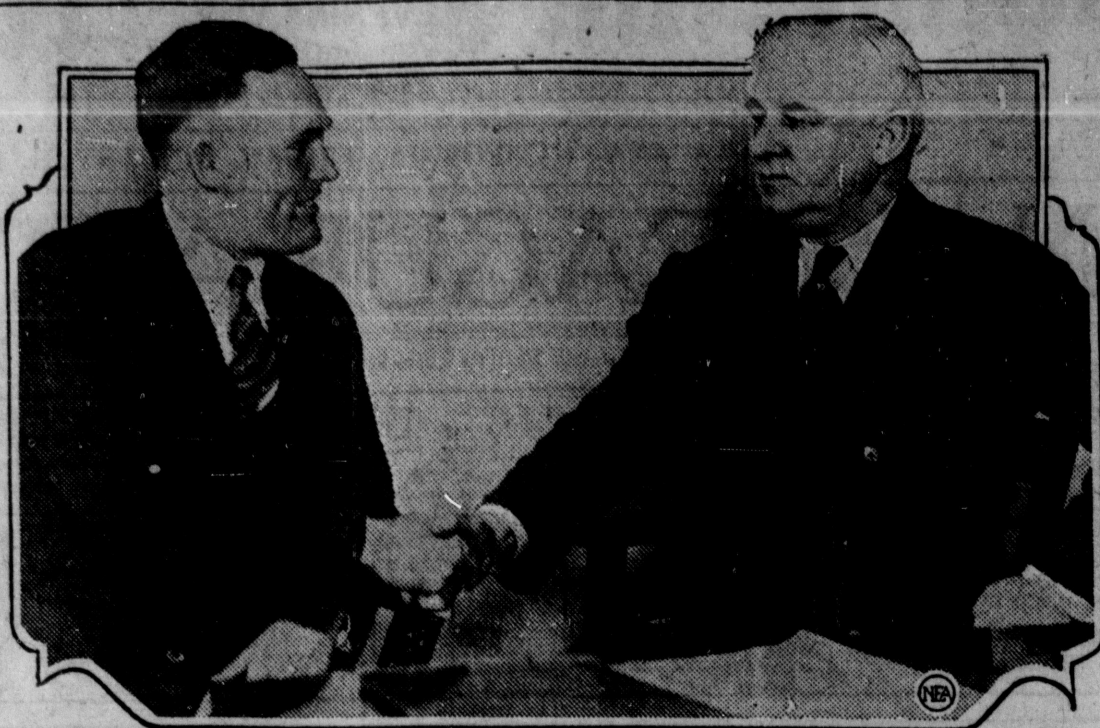

He uses big, heavy wooden clubs, above 15 ounces, clubs he whips at a terrific speed with hardly a sign of a follow through.

He led his brother pros this year not only in scoring but also in percentage of victories. In 19 rounds of tournament golf he averaged 73, a half stroke better than in 1925.

He is a wonderful character, one of the greatest match players the game has ever known and the absolute idol of the British fans.

They all sing his praises. All? Beg pardon, what the Americans are going to sing goes something like this: "You may be the apple of England's eye but you're applesauce to us."

JOHNSON SEEMS CERTAIN TO MEET DEFEAT WHEN MOGULS MEET WITH LANDIS MONDAY

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Ban Johnson, president of the American league, a powerful figure in baseball for many years, seems certain to meet defeat when he encounters Commissioner K. M. Landis here Monday.

Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker seem sure of reinstatement after directors of the American league meet here Sunday and the presidents of the league on Monday.

THIRD O'NEILL GOES TO ST. LOUIS CLUB

because he was one of the rare pitchers of those days who could hit.

There is much pathos connected with the incident that marked the start of Mike O'Neill's passing as a big league star.

One hot July afternoon—hot is the correct word for the St. Louis climate during that month—Mike hit for three bases, finishing up with a beautiful slide to escape the touch. Getting to his feet he was covered with dust. The fact that he was perspiring freely didn't help the situation from a sanitary point of view.

A moment later he scored. As he wended his way back to the bench he was tired, hot and dusty.

Jumps Under Water

Picking up a pail of ice water—the players drank from a pail and the old tin cup in those days, not a filtered cooler—he took an immediate shower bath by tossing the water in the air and jumping under it.

Unfortunately, most of it struck him on the left side and the good old southpaw was thoroughly drenched.

Mike didn't realize that ice water wasn't a very good thing for the highly tuned pitching arm. The muscles "froze," as the trainers would say, causing them to suddenly tighten up. Mike continued to pitch as if nothing had happened, but he pulled several of the muscles.

Mike's kid trick was the beginning of the end for him as a big leaguer, for the arm never was the same afterwards.

A few years later one of the wires in the mask worn by Jack O'Neill broke as the result of a hard foul tip, impairing the vision of one of his eyes and eventually forcing him to retire from baseball.

The last of the O'Neilles is Steve, who achieved greater fame than either of his older brothers and has outlived their big league usefulness by many years. He spent 14 seasons with the Cleveland Indians, was a big star, also the main cog in Cleveland's first pennant and world championship in 1920.

There was an ominous calm in the offices of Johnson and Judge Landis today. Both were preparing for the "showdown" Monday when Johnson will claim that Speaker and Cobb were labeled "crooked" by Landis while they were "merely inefficient" and for this reason were run out of the American league.

Quietude of Certainty

The calm in Landis' office was the quietude of certainty. Landis is certain that no ruling on charges of graft brought against Cobb and Speaker is necessary because "all players involved in the affair are out of baseball." He will contend that Johnson ran Cobb and Speaker out of the game, and that he made no ruling affecting them as he did in regard to the two score players accused of graft by Charles "Swick" Risheng and Arnold "Chick" Gandil.

The charges against Cobb and Speaker—brought by Hubert "Dutch" Leonard—were never ruled on by Landis because they are "no longer in baseball." Johnson admits that they are not playing because he called them unfit to contest in the game that has become America's own. He has said that Cobb was not a good manager, and he has said that Speaker bet on horse races.

Test Comes Sunday

Because most of the men in the sporting world believe that managerial efficiency and gambling on the ponies is a matter with which big league moguls need have no concern, it seems as though both players should—in the consensus of general opinion—receive exoneration from the charges that they are "grafters."

The real test will come Sunday when the directors of the American league meet. This quartette—Barnard of Cleveland, Quinn of Boston, Boll of St. Louis and Johnson—plus two other clubowners invited by Johnson, will consider Johnson's plea that Cobb and Speaker were not accorded a square deal in being branded as grafters when they were merely "quietly dropped from the game."

Johnson contends that Landis was seeking publicity in making known "Dutch" Leonard's charges against the two star outfielders.

New Fad Is Introduced Here

Zounds! Are Bracelets For Men to Be Next?

Switzer Gets Away With It

By The Rambler

Milady is not the only one who has fallen under the spell of the slave bracelet. College lads and shels, we are told, are simply batty over huge silver link bracelets, so batty, in fact, that they are buying them themselves and not waiting to be presented with them by girl friends.

It remained for a theatrical, doing a turn at a local playhouse, to "introduce" the fad here. Browsing about Fourth street yesterday, we came upon this unusual and somewhat ghastly sight on our very own "Main street."

Now, since most fads and fancies start in and about the theatrical profession, do not be surprised if a scourge of these terrible bracelets is about to descend on the males of the land.

Don't laugh! They look as funny as they sound.

Yet did we laugh a few seasons ago when Greenwich Village alone adopted smocks, sandals and bobbed hair? Today every office building in Santa Ana and any other community is besieged with smocked stenos, bobbed hair is commoner than long and undulating shoes are sported by the "athletic" and "bachelor" girls of every port.

Scores of fads, however, die young, if for no other reason than their uselessness. Many of them are never seen and but vaguely remembered. The swagger stick, for instance, was short-lived, and those trick mannish vests that caught on with a few of our women are seldom seen hereabouts anymore.

Campaigns for establishing a fad are most carefully planned. The efforts to popularize this or that are generally begun by some agent who tries to induce a public figure to wear it. If some prominent actress shows up at a ritzy night club with some new-fangled bit of apparel, its a certainty that scores of underlings will try to ape her. These in turn will be aped by somebody else until the fad is established—or dies.

See-sawing up and down Fourth street: Did see Bruce Switzer, the only man in the world who has introduced Carrie Jacobs Bond as "a woman who has caused hundreds of heartaches" and gotten away with it.... Saw Louis Timson, the nator officially accredited with much of the success of the English channel conquests of Gertrude Ederle and "Millie" Timson and Timson, himself a well known swimmer, did blush as a schoolboy when reporters asked him if there was truth in the report of his enamourment of Miss Ederle.... Saw J. P. Baumgartner, the stately publisher who protests that he needs condolences rather than felicitations over his appointment to the California Highway commission.... Saw Charles Winterburn, pudgy young football coach, who left Santa Ana to become associated with his old master, "Pop" Warner, but who "came back" to renew old acquaintances in this hamlet.... Saw John Cannon, freckled bank clerk, who helps run a drug store during his off-hours.... Saw Earl E. Morrow, manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, who lately took up smoking to "kill" a persistent cold.... Saw the Santa Ana city fire department "working" before the movie cameras as a publicity "gag" for one of the local theaters.... Saw Nat Neff, new superintendent of county highways, who stepped overnight from a similar job with the city, which goes to show that you never can tell what will happen in politics.... Saw Dr. Francis Atwell, the dentist, who still wears the long swallow-tail business coat that used to characterize the raiment of all medical men.... Saw E. M. Nealley, professor of philosophy and psychology at the Santa Ana Junior college, who once declined a chair at Harvard because he preferred to remain in this vicinity.... Saw J. C. Metzgar, former secretary of the chamber of commerce, who now transacts realty business in the city he used to publicize.... Saw L. A. Schlesinger, former king of the Santa Ana motion picture industry, who now specializes in arranging entertainment programs for his brethren of Santa Ana lodge No. 744, B. P. O. E.... Saw M. Phillips, but of many a joke and instigator of numerous amusing situations of his own accord, sauntering leisurely down the rialto toward the Sunset club.... Saw P. G. Beisel, who got his "start" here as a shoe store clerk, then bought in with the owner and now is president of a building and loan company just like the hero of one of Oliver Optic's best sellers.... Saw Charles Crawford, enterprising young reporter, who was sent to "cover" the Catalina channel swim and who gained "local color" for the affair by falling into the chill waters while attempting to transport his huge bulk from one boat to another. This unfortunate incident occurred while the race was being started and Crawford's comrades facetiously termed him "the first to be taken from the water."

Members of the Academy of Inscriptions and Letters, composed of men of learning, signed a round robin at their last meeting that read:

"Out of regard for the health of those who survive me, I forbid any speeches at my obsequies."

This leadership is crystallizing a long, latent movement to be more humane to the living who in France show the greatest respect for the dead.

The funeral of Jean Richepin, the poet, a short time ago, brought illness to many aged persons who stood in the cold rain, trembling with cold, overwrought with emotion, while notable speakers orated.

This record, the best since California adopted the convict road-building plan, was announced by Ben H. Milliken, superintendent, in his annual summary of activities.

The camps with the record of no escapes were on the Redwood highway, in Del Norte county, and on the Tahoe-Ukiah highway, in Lake county.

Honor Prisoners Are Well Behaved

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 21.—Two of the three California prison road camps operated for the entire year of 1926 without a single attempt upon the part of a convict to escape, and in the third camp only two of the four attempts were successful.

This record, the best since California adopted the convict road-building plan, was announced by Ben H. Milliken, superintendent, in his annual summary of activities.

The camps with the record of no escapes were on the Redwood highway, in Del Norte county, and on the Tahoe-Ukiah highway, in Lake county.

STUDENT BODY JOBS ATTRACT 'POLY' YOUTHS

The "girl for president" ballyhoo has been removed from campaign cries in the elections at the Santa Ana polytechnic high school, through the withdrawal of the candidacy of Miss Virginia Brandon, for the past semester acting president of the student body.

Four boys are now rivals for the office.

Nominations for the student body board of control members were made yesterday at assembly. The petitions for several of the candidates came as last-minute surprises. The student body election will be held next Thursday.

Candidates put up for president are Judson Riley, Hubert Prior, Raymond Hutchens and Dean Miller. Other nominations were: Vice President, Stanley Norton; secretary, Gayle Baldwin; girls' self-government committee, Jean Nicholson, Ja et Wilson and Virginia Bailey; boys' self-government, Fred Burlew, John Moffat and Ralph White.

The balloting for president is expected to be close, requiring a revote before it is finally decided. All candidates have strong support.

Earlier this week, a petition for Clarence Sprague for president was circulated, but it has been withdrawn.

New Radio Device Replaces Vacuum Tubes, Batteries

MACON, Ga., Jan. 21.—Mercer university has announced the perfection, by Dr. Palmer H. Craig, head of its physics department, of a radio device which replaces batteries and vacuum tubes in receiving sets. The invention which Dr. Craig calls an "electro-magnetic detector and amplifier," also will make the radio more sensitive and provide more range for smaller sets, the announcement said.

Chrysauros Head Finally Is Found

ATHENS, Jan. 21.—It is officially announced that the celebrated marble head of Chrysauros, which was stolen three years ago from the Corfu Museum, has been recovered. The head was in a package returned from Marseilles and left in the custom house at the Piraeus. The head, which is believed to be the only example of its type, was discovered by the Emperor William during his excavations at Corfu in 1911.

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a spoonful or four tablets of Bisulphated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisulphated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful antacid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisulphated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

DE MILLE PAYS
FILM OF BIBLE

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Jan. 21.—A thousand dollars a word—that is what it is costing Cecil B. DeMille to film 21 verses of the Bible.

This expensive passage, the 27th chapter of Matthew, verses 33 to 54 is one of the main sequences in "The King of Kings." DeMille's cinema version of Christ's life. Three months in time and more than $400,000 were spent in "shooting" these scenes.

The above verses have to do with the crucifixion of Jesus. DeMille has varied from the Bible just a trifle. When the Virgin Mary is kneeling before Christ on the cross between the two thieves, the mother of one thief comes up to her and says, "We mothers of wayward sons know how this goes."

For the two verses covering the earthquake, the largest sets ever built on a motion picture lot are destroyed. Trick photography and miniatures could have achieved the same result, but it would have been lacking in real magnitude.

There are many dramatic situations. There is the picturization of Barabbas, the thief and murderer, being released so that Christ may be crucified.

"Have thou nothing to do with that Just Man, for I have suffered many things this day in a dream because of Him." Upon this verse is based the scene in which Procula, portrayed by Majel Coleman, entreats her husband, Pontius Pilate, to be merciful to Jesus.

Another sequence shows the raising of Lazarus with Jesus, Martha and Mary of Bethany in the tomb. The Last Supper and the betrayal of Christ by Judas are enhancing and impressive.

According to present plans, "The King of Kings" will be released sometime during Lent, probably having its world premier in Hollywood. By Easter Sunday it will be running in Hollywood, New York and possibly Chicago and Philadelphia.

Electric Vote
Machine Urged
In Legislature

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 21.—A concurrent resolution calling for appointment of a committee to investigate the advisability of installing electric voting machines in the two houses of the state legislature, was introduced in the senate by Senator West of Alameda and adopted without opposition.

Senator West explained that the purpose of the plan was to save minutes, "for a great deal of the time of the legislature is consumed in taking the vote of members by the present method of viva voce."

With electric voting machines installed, senators and assemblymen would vote by pressing buttons on their desks, and the ayes and noes would be automatically recorded and made visible on an annunciator in plain view of the house.

Senator Taylor, Pomona, read a report by State Printer John E. King to the effect that the state printing plant now is equipped to print bills after the manner of the United States senate and house of representatives legislation; that is, with all deleted portions of a measure appearing on "strike out" type, and all additions to the original bill appearing in italics.

Mermaids Held
Southern Seas

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Mermaids exist, says Baron de Fernig, Dutch nobleman now visiting England. Baron Fernig has spent most of his life in South Africa and Kenya.

Mermaids, according to the baron, are queer fish that are caught by Swahili fishermen off the coast of East Africa, north of Mombasa. They have heads with protruding eyes and a growth strangely like hair. Although they have no arms, the body down to the middle has a quite distinct likeness to the human form. They are more than five feet in length.

"The flesh was very shriveled and soaly but to the touch was quite the texture of skin," Baron Fernig said. "The natives are very fond of the meat. So marked is the resemblance of the fish to human beings, the natives are required to give very particular details to the officials before the fish can be sold in the market."

Seek Revival of Gay Art Spirit
In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—An attempt to revive the parched spirit of Bohemia will be made by artists of San Francisco and the students of the California School of Fine Arts. They hope to bring back the gay days when the San Francisco Art association was the center of the city's artistic life and Bohemia's social affairs, when art and society mingled with something of abandon.

A recent reception of the art association, parent of the California school of fine arts, was regarded as the forerunner of the movement. A ball scheduled for next April and patterned after the masked affairs given in the old Mark Hopkins mansion, long since destroyed by fire, is to be held in the new fine art building on the slopes of Russian hill.

NORTHERN AREA OF AUSTRALIA TO BE DIVIDED

DARWIN, Australia, Jan. 21.—The vast area of more than half a million square miles that has long been known as the Northern Territory of Australia is on the eve of a great administrative change.

The North Australia act recently passed by the federal parliament, provides for the division of the territory into two states, to be known as North Australia and Central Australia. The 20th parallel of south latitude was selected as the dividing line between the new states, thus giving to each an area of approximately a quarter of a million square miles of territory.

The new states are not yet to be raised to the level of the other six states of the commonwealth. Since 1922, the Northern Territory has had one representative in the federal parliament, but, while he may speak in the house of representatives on measures before that assembly, he cannot vote.

As the Northern Territory is not a state, there is no state parliament, and, in fact, the only elective body within the territory is the Darwin town council. With a population of little more than 3000 whites and half-castes spread over the third greatest administrative division in Australia, the backwardness of the territory in political matters is not a matter for wonder.

A change is at hand. On a date, perhaps an early one, to be fixed by proclamation new bodies will be charged with the administration of the states of North and Central Australia. A government resident, who must be a medical man, will assume duty at Alice Springs, the capital of Central Australia, and he will "exercise and perform all powers and functions that belong to his office, according to such instructions as are given him by the Minister," I. e., the Minister of Home and Territories.

Ordinances (based originally on the laws of South Australia, which formerly administered the Northern Territory) will continue to hold good, but the government resident will be assisted by an advisory council (consisting of two nominated and two elected members), which will advise the resident on any matter affecting Central Australia.

North Australia similarly will be given a government resident and an advisory council. But, while Central Australia is to be "developed" by the ministry of home territories, from Melbourne, and later from Canberra, both rather remote, the progress of North Australia will be accelerated by the North Australia commission. This commission has already been appointed, and is holding daily meetings in Melbourne before visiting North Australia.

Relatives Are Of Much Aid to Picture Actors

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Closely linked with the careers of numerous motion picture actors and actresses are their more or less inconspicuous brothers and sisters.

Several brothers are in the managerial background. Frank Joyce, brother of Alice Joyce, is her manager. Douglas Fairbanks' brother, Robert, was long his business advisor. Harold Lloyd's brother, Gaylord, is an assistant director with the Lloyd unit, and his uncle, William R. Fraser, is general manager of his company.

Secretarial jobs are kept within other families. Adolphe Menjou has a brother, Henry, who handles the star's mail and occasionally performs in his pictures. Richard Dix's sister, Josephine, for some time was a feminine buffer between her brother and girlish admirers. Greta Nissen's brother, Eric, has become her secretary, while a similar role is filled for Mae Marsh by her sister, Frances.

Charles Hines directs his illustrious brother, Johnny, Sid Chaplin, before becoming a comedian in his own right, was his brother Charlie's manager. Director Malcolm St. Clair has a brother, Erik, who is his gag man and assistant. Director Allan Dwan's brother, Dr. Leo Dwan, is his business manager, and D. W. Griffith's brother, Alfred Grey, handles the management of his road show pictures.

Warden Irked by Audit at Prison

SAN QUENTIN, Jan. 21.—Audit of prison accounts now under way here for the state board of control is "a deliberate attempt to besmirch my character," Warden Frank J. Smith charged.

Smith defied "certain persons" who, he charged, "don't want me on this job."

"I have a four-year appointment as warden of San Quentin which expires Jan. 1, 1929," Smith said. "Rumors that I plan resigning are without foundation. Any investigation will show the prison is being properly conducted."

Although admitting the audit is under way, board of control members, as well as members of the prison board, have disclaimed that it was ordered with any idea of "getting" Warden Smith.

Germany to Take Red Tape Out of Divorce System

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—Divorces may be had for the asking in Germany when the judiciary committee of the reichstag gets through with modernizing the existing divorce law, which, while lenient in its provisions, is involved in so much red tape that legal proceedings are costly and tedious.

Among other things the committee is considering a provision that would compel a woman to support her divorced husband as well as children in case it is proved that the husband is financially incapable and the wife is in good circumstances. In any case, the support of the children, according to the proposal, would be borne by the most able of the parties in the suit, regardless of which one obtained the divorce.

In general the committee is inclined to allow courts to grant divorces when it is shown that "the actions of either party for any reason made further domestic life unpleasant or unbearable for the other party."

Southern California Gardens

By RUSSELL S. ADKINSON
ARTICLE XVI Printed Each Friday

Roses
About 600 B. C. Sappho said that Jupiter wished to give flowers a queen, the rose would be their queen. Twenty-five centuries later, we find the same sentiment prevailing. No flower has held such prominence throughout the generations as the rose.

In California, the rose does so much to support itself. There is, perhaps, nothing we can have which will produce so much beauty with as little effort.

Present Garden
To those who have not already done the annual winter pruning, let me suggest that you do so at once. Already new buds are starting and further delay results in sacrifice of plant energy. Cut out all old wood and remove surplus new growth, keeping in mind symmetry of bush. Sometimes, it is necessary to leave old wood in order to accomplish the desired results. A bush that has but a few well arranged branches, cut well back, will produce much better roses than one left with a mass of branches. Once it is well pruned, each bud or flower should be removed by cutting to just above the second lowest bud of the stem, upon which it appears.

New Garden
In preparing for the new rose garden, choose the location in which the roses will receive a maximum amount of sunshine. A good, rich, well drained soil is appreciated, although the rose is credited with splendid results in poorest of soils. The ground shall be well pulverized before planting. It is well to so arrange the garden, if possible, so that no lawn sprinklers will throw mist upon the rose bushes.

Classifications
In choosing your new roses, you will find letters following the name of each, which are abbreviations of their classification. The following are the most common.

Hybrid Perpetual
The hybrid perpetual (H. P.) are hardy and resistant to cold. Growth is vigorous and upright. Stems are long and flowers usually are borne erect. The foliage is rough and entirely without the glossy surface of the tea. They possess a distinct fragrance.

Hybrid Teas
The hybrid teas (H. T.) are of comparatively recent origin and today are most important of all. They show the beauty, delicacy and perpetual blooming habit of the teas and the vigor and hardiness of the hybrid perpetuals. Some have the tea scent, while in others, the fragrance of the hybrid perpetuals prevails.

Pernetiana
The pernetiana (Per.) is the most recent class. It was originated by J. Pernet Ducher, a result of a cross between Austrian briar and Antone Ducher, a hybrid perpetual. It is a wonderful group, with startling color effects developed to date and doubtless a wonderful future ahead.

Teas
The teas (T.) as a rule, are slender and not very vigorous. Foliage is glossy and they have a tendency toward continuous blooming.

If you are familiar with the above classifications when buying roses it is a great aid. Roses are usually listed by name and color and an abbreviation of their class. That gives you a pretty fair description. Catalogs often give further details.

Varieties
There are hundreds of varieties marketed each year and, when confronted with an array of names, it often is difficult to choose unless you are familiar with some of the varieties. A good way to choose is by selecting the roses from the nursery when they are in flower.

The disadvantage, however, is that often some varieties are sold out by that time.

So many eastern varieties are not well adapted to our conditions and it often is difficult for those who have come here from other states to choose the varieties they are familiar with. A number of western catalogs list these varieties, but chiefly for mail order business.

The American Rose society has compiled lists of favored roses for different parts of America as recorded by votes of the membership. These lists are for separate localities. The California list of the 12 best is as follows:

Ophelia, H. T., salmon flesh.
Mrs. Edward Herriott (Daily Mail).
Pern., terra-cotta.
Hoosier Beauty, H. T., glowing crimson.
Lady Hillington, T., apricot yellow.
Los Angeles, H. T., flame pink.
Columbia, H. T., handsome pink.
Duchess of Wellington, H. T., intense saffron yellow.
Cheerful, H. T., pure orange.
Sunburst, H. T., cadmium yellow with orange center.
General McArthur, H. T., scarlet red.
Golden Emblem, H. T., clear yellow.
Constance, H. T., cadmium yellow.

This survey is up to 1924. There are many other varieties well worthy of mention that are popular at present.

The following are a few:
William F. Dreer, H. T., soft pink with yellow.
Ulrich Brunner, H. P., geranium red.
Souv. de Georges Pernet, H. T., oriental red.
Souv. de Claudius Pernet, Pern., sunflower yellow.
Red radiance, H. T., clear cerise red.
Mrs. Charles Russell, H. T., rosy carmine.
Miss Lolita Armour, Pern., coral red with golden copper suffusion.
Louise-Catherine Breslau, Pern.,

shrimp pink faded with orange. Hadley, H. T., deep red.
Dandeur Lyonnais, H. P., one of the best white.

The above color descriptions are not as you will find in every catalog. Some roses are described in several ways and each way is probably correct according to the basis for it.

Upon receiving your new roses, see that they are cut back from three to five buds to the cane. Plant then to just above the bud and keep well watered. When flowers appear, always cut with long canes.

The subject of roses is so large that it would take considerable time to go into it thoroughly and many other things are to be considered now. It is hoped, however, that the above brief information may be of some value to all who may read it.

HUGH POMEROY WILL TALK ON ROAD PLANNING
Discussion by Hugh Pomeroy, secretary of the regional planning commission of Los Angeles county, on city and county planning of highways, will offer a program at the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, Thursday night, in Orange, which should attract attendance of city councilmen of the county well as other interested in road planning and development.

George Raymer, secretary of the association, said today that it was the hope of officers that representatives of the board of supervisors and of every city council in the county would be present.

Pointing out that Pomeroy is one of the best authorities in the Southland on regional planning, as the work pertains to roads, the secretary said that Pomeroy's discussion should be of county-wide interest. Because of the expectation of a large attendance, Raymer urged that reservations be made in advance with V. D. Johnson, secretary of the Orange Chamber of Commerce. The meeting will be held in the Women's clubhouse, on Center street, near Chapman street, Orange.

The Manchester and Century boulevard projects will be brought up for discussion. Work is said to be developing satisfactorily on both arteries, with indications favorable to start of construction within a year or two.

The Manchester boulevard is to enter Orange county from the north, running parallel with the Southern Pacific tracks from Norwalk to Santa Ana. The Century boulevard enters from the west, running parallel with the Pacific Electric tracks from Watts to Santa Ana.

Nature is Man's best Dietitian —take her advice

The whole trouble with our eating these days is that we are getting away from the kind of diet Nature intended us to have. Foods are being refined, denatured, and devitalized. We eat too much of some elements and not enough of others. Our diets have become unbalanced and unhealthful, simply because they have become unnatural.

Whole wheat supplies all the food the body needs in perfectly balanced form

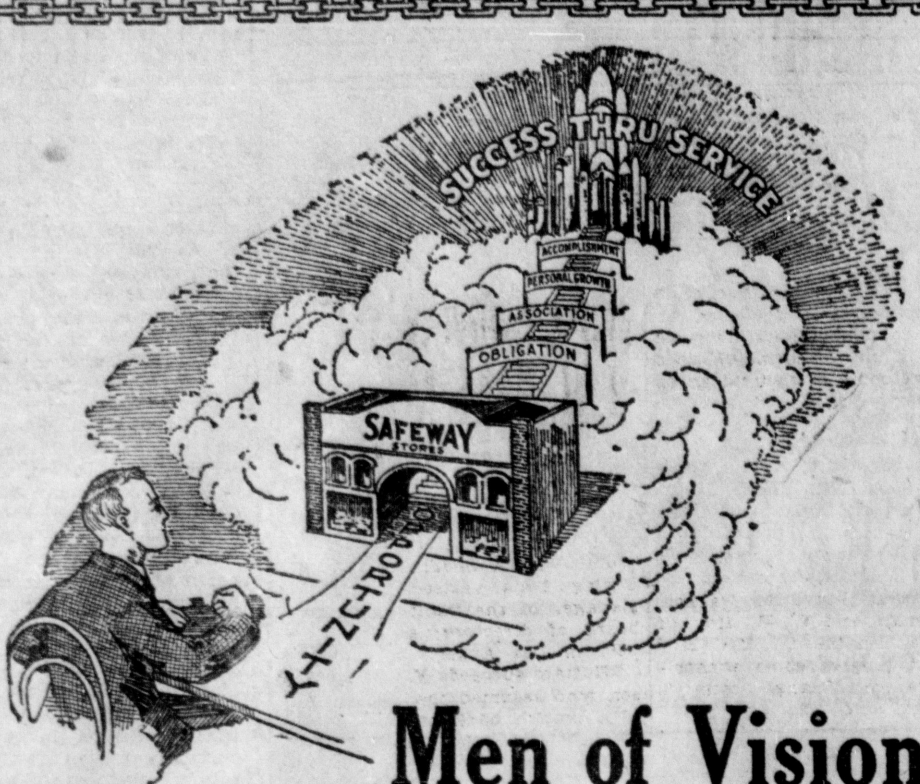

But eat whole wheat and you get just the things that the dietitians say are necessary to health and strength. Eat Shredded Wheat and you get whole wheat in its most appetizing form, easy to digest—with all the proteins, carbohydrates, vitamins and mineral salts in just the right proportions—as Nature intended. And bran, too,—every bit that was in the grain—to help you keep your system clear and active.

Make Shredded Wheat a part of your daily diet—for breakfast and for luncheon. Give your body the balanced diet that Nature provides.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

REPORT TO BE SCENE OF BIG "HUSKING BEE"

FULLERTON, Jan. 21.—The old fashioned husking bee idea is to be applied to any up-to-date subject. Directors of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce at their luncheon gathering yesterday afternoon decided to promote a volunteer field day out at the airport site of the western aviation. Workers to help get the ground in shape for aviation purposes will be sought from among the ranks of the chamber membership and recruited from the service clubs and other organizations. It is planned to ask women to help, too. It will be their task to provide lunches for the toilers and to cheer them on and to encourage rivalry between the different groups.

An inkling of the competitive possibilities that lurk in the scheme was given by a mock-serious verbal clash between two pairs of directors. This was provoked when Robert Strain and Rich Volk suggested that a sum be raised to hire help instead of performing the strenuous work themselves. J. A. Prizer straightaway accused them of being "work shirkers." Strain and Volk then issued a challenge that they would perform more work than Prizer and R. S. Gregory, who had supported Prizer's stand.

Krause said that the municipal airport scheme was "going over big." He reported enthusiastically on recent developments and told of the numerous features that were being held in abeyance pending clearing of the field ready for flying. He flew over to Santa Monica Wednesday to accompany William Dowling back with a new three-seater Waco biplane which Dowling has purchased for use at the new airport here with two others.

The board approved of the reappointment of R. T. Davies, W. J. Carmichael and Secretary Leach as the chamber's delegates to meetings of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County.

Chairmen of committees of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce for 1927 were announced by President Dale King.

Advertising and publicity, J. R. Gardiner; agriculture, H. J. Burdett; city affairs, Ray B. Leach; conventions, Gorman Hopp; county affairs and highways, R. T. Davies; educational, C. A. Marcy; entertainment, Waldo O'Kelly; membership and finance, Tom Eddington; merchants, A. R. Volk; aeronautics, Howard Krause; transportation, J. A. Prizer; parks, playgrounds, Robert Strain; drainage, R. S. Gregory.

$500,000 HARBOR PROJECT ENDORSED AT MASS MEETING; MESANS MAY JOIN NEWPORT

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 21.—More than 250 persons were present at the mass meeting held in the grammar school last night to consider the $500,000 bond issue to be voted on February 14. When the bond project was out to a vote, it was revealed that those present were unanimously in favor of the bonds.

The possibility that Costa Mesa may ask to be incorporated with Newport Beach and this help pay the $500,000 bonds for the improvement of the entrance to Newport Bay was hinted at the meeting.

The Costa Mesa citizens expressed themselves as being in favor of the development of the harbor entrance and declared that Costa Mesa considered itself a part of the harbor area and would like to have a part in the development of the harbor.

The Costa Mesans were invited by City Attorney Clyde Bishop to present a petition to the city board of trustees asking that Costa Mesa be annexed to Newport Beach. Bishop explained that by incorporating in the petition the wish that the territory be subject to taxation for the improvement of the harbor entrance, that the Costa Mesa district would be able to help develop the harbor.

Dr. Conrad Richter, chairman of the city board of trustees was in charge of the meeting. Richter opened the meeting and later was made temporary chairman of the meeting and then was selected to act as temporary chairman of the new central chamber of commerce which is to be formed in the harbor district.

James F. Collins, chairman of the harbor committee of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, spoke to the assembly on the harbor. Collins told of the development of Long Beach harbor. He pointed out that during the past seven years the growth of Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors had been phenomenal, showing six stanchions calling in 1913, the harbor raised to 150 lines during the past year.

Collins stated that the development of Newport Bay as a harbor would materially assist Long Beach and San Pedro harbors. He declared that the Orange county port could care for a great many small shipping vessels which would cause less congestion in the harbor.

That the amount of co-operation shown by the various sections of Newport Beach in the coming bond election will gauge the amount of government assistance that may be secured, was declared by Collins. A bill asking the formation of a harbor improvement district has already been filed at Sacramento. It was announced by Clyde Bishop, Bishop explained that the harbor bond issue was for the building of two jetties. One to the west of the entrance is to be 2100 feet long and on the north side of the entrance will be 1500 feet long. The two jetties will be 900 feet apart.

Bishop predicted that once the harbor entrance is repaired that development by private capital would be fast in the harbor district.

The city attorney declared that heretofore the selfishness of each section has hindered the development of the whole city. He asked the citizens to co-operate in forming a central chamber of commerce and unite the town in a single growing unit.

H. R. Howard, a certified public accountant of the McCloud and McFarlin company, Los Angeles, and R. S. Briggs, city treasurer at Newport Beach, each gave short talks on the amount of taxes under the bond issue. It was shown that the tax rate would be comparatively light. Property assessed at $1000 would pay a tax the first year of $240 it was declared, and each year after the amount would decrease.

It was also announced at the meeting that steps have been taken which may result in Newport Bay being made a port of registration in the near future. According to a report given at the meeting last night, this would add about $100,000 to the assessed valuation of the town.

More than 150 persons signed cards applying for membership in the central chamber of commerce, which was started here last night. The cards were passed out by Boy Scouts and later placed in the hands of Dr. Conrad Richter, temporary chairman. An organization meeting will probably be called next week, when permanent officers will be elected and a secretary selected.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Kit Carson

Sketches By Kroesen
Synopsis By Braucher

In the romantic valley of Rayedo, 40 miles east of Taos, Carson, in 1849, established a little settlement with an old friend of the plains named Maxwell, and other comrades about him. Braves of neighboring tribes often called at Carson's ranch. They honored his courage. To them he was known as "Father Kit."

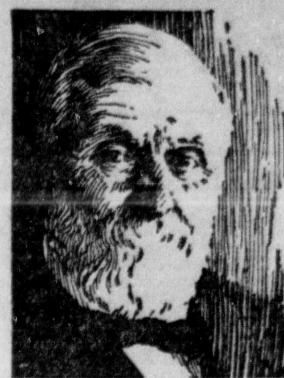

The old urge to trap the streams came often to Carson and he would set out over the trails in quest of furs and adventure.

In 1853, with 6000 sheep, Carson journeyed overland via Fort Laramie and Salt Lake to California, where he marketed them.

At San Francisco Carson met many of the old spirits of the plains and rivers, and good-fellowship constantly sought him out. San Francisco then was the cosmopolitan center of life on the coast, and Carson found himself everywhere a hero. But he avoided dissipation and took his way again over the trails to Taos. Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never

THE TINYMITES BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Eskimo the Tinymites found was kind and showed them all around. He'd made real friends with Clowney, so the crowd thought him all right. The Tinymites all thought Clowney lost, but into luck he had been tossed, 'cause he had met the Eskimo and stayed with him all night.

"I haven't had much fun of late," their new friend said. "And this is great to meet a bunch of little folks all set to run and play. I'll show you sights you'll say are real. Perhaps we'll find a bear or seal, if you will just be patient, 'cause they often come this way."

Some other Eskimos came out to find out what 'twas all about. They'd heard the high pitched voices of the little Tinymites. They all were friendly as could be, and Coppy said, "It seems to me that we had best get started, if we're going to see the sights." So, down a long ice path they went. The Eskimo seemed quite intent on scaring forth a polar bear to please his little friends, who gladly joined him on the hunt. Just then they heard a nearby grunt, and someone loudly shouted, "This is where our journey ends."

In just about a minute more the bear came forth amid a roar. The Eskimo ran up to him and stroked his fuzzy head. The Tinymites' eyes were open wide. Such wondrous stunts they'd never tried. Then, "Who would like to ride this bear?" the fur boy loudly said.

"Oh, I would," came the quick reply. The Tinymites all were glad to try, so Mister Polar Bear stood still while one crawled on his back. And then the bear jumped quickly out amid the very happy shout. The whole gang raced along so they could follow in his track.

BEAUTY CHATS BY EDNA KENT FORBES

WELL KEPT NAILS

If you will keep a small and not too stiff bristled nail brush in your bathroom it will help solve the problem of keeping your nails nice looking without spending much time over them. Nails look badly because minute particles of dirt collect around the cuticle and under the edges, and one of the quickest ways to get these particles off is by hot water, soap and a brush. For the brush gets under the edges and cleans more thoroughly than rubbing with the hands or with a cloth.

Don't use too stiff a brush, though, or you may bruise the delicate skin around the nails, or the still more delicate part beneath the nails, where they grow from the fingers and where most of the dirt collects. And don't scrub too hard; a lot of damage is done in this world by the people who are over conscientious. Use a moderately stiff brush, and if yours happens to be too stiff, let the hot water soften it before you try it.

The nails need bleaching every few days, because stains get on the skin or underneath the nails and even the brush won't take them off. I'd advise keeping a little bottle of lemon juice in the bathroom cupboard and using this with an orange wood stick wrapped in cotton, just as you use any nail bleach. Or, dig your nails into a section of juicy lemon and let the juice work itself all over the finger ends. Or, keep some of the white paste bleach which you can buy anywhere, run this under the nails and scrub it out in a few moments with the nail brush. There are several paste bleaches, they are easy to use and if washed out soon afterwards, they won't dry or harm the fingers.

But ordinarily, scrubbing the nails with a brush and pushing back the cuticle with an orange wood stick, and then giving them a quick polish with a clean buffer, is all the manicure you need.

Use a brush on your nails

Once a week you will have to be more thorough, of course.

Brown eyes—You can improve the growth of your lashes and brows if you quicken the circulation, just as one may do when massaging one's scalp to increase the growth of hair.

Grasp the lashes between finger and thumb and gently pull them, thereby quickening the circulation; with the brows you can massage and also brush them until you feel the blood tingling under them. There are tonics also for stimulating the growth of the lashes and brows.

WISDOM

Strange, is it not, that wisdom seems to shatter dreams?
That he who furthest seeks the light Finds only night,
And faithfulness and bitter doubt Strewn all about.

Strange, that the wisest men appear The more they sneer!
That reading deep books they can find No peace of mind,
And seeking joy and promise there Find but despair!

Yet flowers bloom and skies grow blue,
The sun is true!
Brave hearts rejoice, despite the cares,
That life is theirs!
They love the very things the wise So much despise.

Across the fields of doubt they plod
With faith in God,
And gather what they can of mirth Upon the earth.
"Fools!" a sour-minded scholar cries,
"You should be wise!"

Queer Quirks of - NATURE -

A FAMOUS OAK THAT ROOSEVELT PLANTED

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.

In the grounds at the White House, at Washington, stands a tree which links the past and present in an unusual manner. This tree is an outgrowth of an acorn brought from Russia, and because of this and its unique lineage it is known as the Russo-American oak.

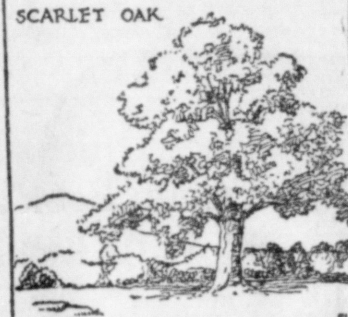

The tree from which the acorn was obtained stands in Petrograd. It grew from an acorn produced by a tree at the tomb of Washington, at Mount Vernon.

The Mount Vernon acorn was sent to the Czar of Russia by Senator Charles Sumner of Massachusetts, and planted in the grounds of the imperial palace by the czar as a symbol of Russo-American friendship. In 1898, the tree which had grown from Senator Sumner's acorn was located by Ethan Allen Hitchcock, then American ambassador to St. Petersburg. Gathering and planting some of the acorns from this tree, the ambassador sent a sapling of the new generation to President Roosevelt for planting in the White House grounds.

The planting took place April 6, 1904, 13 years before the day on which the United States joined hands with Russia and other European countries in the World War. The tree has been registered in the Hall of Fame for trees with a history, by the American Tree association.

The young tree was planted by President Roosevelt, with the cooperation of Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture, and Mr. Hitchcock, then secretary of the interior.

The scarlet oak has a thick dark brown bark with irregular shallow furrows. Its leaves are thin, a shiny olive green above, somewhat paler beneath. The autumn coloring of the leaves is deep cardinal red.

Interesting News of the Day Told In Pictures

When the snow flies up at Lake Placid, N. Y., so do sleds. Here's one, all loaded with New York society folks, ready for a speedy trip down the slide. On the sled, left to right, are Master James Donahue Jr., Master Woolworth Donahue and Mrs. James P. Donahue, the former Miss Jessie Woolworth; standing, Miss Agnes Donahue and Fred McCann.

Mrs. Walter Cline, Alameda, Calif., both mother and stepmother to her three children, shown here, and their father is also their grandfather as well as the husband of his mother-in-law and stepdaughter. Cline surrendered, telling police he married a woman, learned later that her husband was still living, and with her consent, married his wife's daughter. Now, it seems the report of the other husband living is untrue—so to straighten it all out, his stepdaughter-wife will get her marriage annulled.

Listening in at New York, on the inauguration of the transatlantic wireless telephone service as Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company (left center), converses with Sir G. Evelyn P. Murray, the British postmaster general, in London. With Mr. Gifford at the table (left to right) are E. J. Bloom, F. B. Jewett, General J. J. Carty, Bancroft Gerardi, E. B. Craft, H. T. Guernsey and C. J. Dubois, A. T. & T. officials. After this ceremony the service was opened to the public.

Miss Rae Mockbee, Mountain View, won a debate with her life at stake when two auto bandits, who had slain her sweetheart, Harry Morgan, wanted to kill her because she had seen their faces. She convinced them she was too frightened to recognize them again.

Frederick C. Baird, former Pittsburgh prohibition chief, whom General Andrews once called "the perfect prohibition chief," was all together imperfect in the way he paid his help, according to Miss Marion L. Bennett, of Pittsburgh. She has sued him for pay, which she says is due her for work she did for him.

Responsibility for keeping a half million people in King county, Wn., happily married is in the hands of Attorney Grace Dailey, Seattle, first woman named to the position of divorce proctor. Miss Dailey was admitted to the bar in 1923.

Gudmunder Grimson, of Langdon, N. D., who in 1923 helped investigate the death of Martin Tabert in a Florida prison camp, has been appointed a judge of the district court by Gov. A. G. Sorlie, of North Dakota. Grimson spent months in Florida after Tabert, a North Dakota boy, had been whipped to death in a prison lumber camp.

As she was shopping at a Fifth avenue department store in New York, Queensa Mario, Metropolitan opera soprano, heard sweet singing. She traced the voice to Rosalind Ruby, of Cleveland, a salesgirl. Now Rosalind is to be given an audition which may lead to her joining the opera company. Here are the two together, Rosalind on the left.

Famed as a cook throughout Great Britain is Mrs. Rosa Lewis. From the range, she rose to proprietress of the Cavendish hotel, London, and chef to royalty. She just arrived in New York. Potatoes are the secret of a long life, according to Mrs. Edith Worsor, of Cleveland, who has just passed her 100th birthday. "Eat London, and chef to royalty. She lots of spuds and live long," she says.

Paul Ungrodt, famous "kid mayor" of Washburn, Wis., who got mash notes from girls all over the country as a result of newspaper articles about his record as mayor, tossed all the notes in the waste basket when it came to picking a life partner. His engagement to Alyce Peterson, a Washburn girl, has just been announced. The two are shown here.

Which do you prefer, gentleman, Natalie Kingston and Frances Lee, brunets, or Sally Rand and Gladys McConnell, blondes? They're four of the 13 "Wampus Baby Stars" of 1927, just chosen at Hollywood as the most promising younger movie players. Natalie, California-born, was a dancer in the New York Winter Garden a couple of years ago and broke into movies via the Mack Sennett comedy route. Frances, a Minneapolis girl, arrived in Hollywood late in 1925 and began playing minor roles. Sally Rand, a Kansas City product, got her start as one of 20 players in Cecil B. DeMille's "stock company," a group of untrained actors. Gladys started on the Fox lot, in the Fox "kindergarten."

Here are three more good reasons why tired business men like to spend their winters in Hollywood. The layout shows three more of the "Wampus Baby Stars"—budding film actresses who won recognition in their first year's work. Sally Phipps was unheard of until William Fox discovered her last year; she's said to have the most beautiful back in Hollywood. Iris Stuart was a magazine cover girl model until Famous Players-Lasky found her and signed her up. Barbara Kent sold ribbons in a Hollywood department store; then she won a newspaper beauty contest, got a film test—and won a contract with Universal.

Returning on the S. S. Conte Biancamano from their honeymoon were Mr. and Mrs. Laurence H. Grimes, of Dover, N. H., and Boston. In this photo of the bride, taken on the deck, the excellence of Mr. Grimes' taste is readily perceptible.

"Evangelists to the deaf" is the title the North Carolina Presbyterian synod has conferred on Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Miller Jr., of Shelby, N. C. The two spend all their time preaching—on their fingers—to unfortunates who, like themselves, are deaf and dumb.

Just after Harry A. Miller's 151 class speedboat Angeles set a new record of 60.11 miles an hour at Newport bay, the vessel, skippered by Ralph Snoddy, skidded on a turn and was wrecked, as the lower picture shows. Snoddy was injured, but will recover. Miller, builder of racing motors, will repair the Angeles. The old record was 47.05 miles an hour made by the Spitfire V, at San Diego, a month previously.

This is the front entrance to the Laurier Palace theater, Montreal, as it looked just after the fire, which cost the lives of 77 persons, mostly children, had been brought under control. Note how the freezing temperature froze water from the firemen's hose and coated the box office with a film of ice.

Say what you will for Santa Ana. If you listen close enough you can always hear the anvil chorus. Sometimes the din is tremendous. It never lets up, no matter how worthy the project. And the knockers have killed off many things that would have been of great value to Orange county without any serious expenditure of money, many of the projects involving in no way the paying out of money collected by public taxes. Here are some of the projects knocked in the head by the jokers: Valencia boulevard, municipal airport, Orange county public hospital and flowers along the Coast highway. There are many others. It's a pity some folks die but once.

Every month each member of a certain group in Santa Ana visits its bank and deposits a sum of money, sometimes not so large, but always some. The men in this group have been doing that for some time past and will continue for several months more and then, one bright day, all will be drawn out. These fellows haven't been saying much about it, but they all are looking forward to being in Paris when the time for the American Legion convention rolls around. Surprisingly low rates have been offered to the veterans by the steamship companies and seven ships, at least, have been set aside for the trip. One of the Orange county superior court judges is slated to go along with the score or more other Orange county vets. That's why they visit the bank regularly. That's why their wives have been skimping. They will go along, too.

Some day the supervisors will have to take some action, for or against, on the proposed purchase of additional land for a county recreational center on the site occupied last year by the county fair. Many indorsements of the plan have been secured by the organization backing the project and only one large association, the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, has refused to give it the ok. The "antis" will have to work a miracle to convince the bulk of the people of Orange county that the fair should be held on South Main street, or any place, but where it was held last year. The attendance at the fair last year demonstrated that the proper place for a county civic center has been found. Some what will, many persons are going to continue to believe it. At least, that's my opinion.

LION KILLING CHAMPION BAGS 285 BIG 'CATS'

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 21.—Jay Bruce, "champeen" lion hunter of the Pacific coast, mountain lions, of course, today is engaging in a campaign of extermination against the pestiferous King of the Forest in the wildest section of Southern California.

Bruce has a record of 285 mountain lion pelts to his credit and has bagged a total of 36 to date this year. He averages one a week. "I'm not a slayer," Bruce told proponents of game conservation. "Mountain lions kill weaker animals of the forest just for the love of blood, though" he explained.

"In their plundering and marauding they kill countless revered animals every year. A lion, bulging with three-fourths of a deer in his girths, will snap the life blood from the jugular vein of another deer and let his prey rot on the ground—just for the love of killing."

More information concerning mountain lions in the Pacific coast country has been given to science by Bruce, perhaps, than any other trapper. Bruce studies the lion at first hand, examines the stomach contents, determines how they live, and furnishes University of California with first hand information. Six magnificent dogs and a little .32 calibre pistol are his only weapons. Whenever lion tracks are picked up the dogs trail them, unerring accuracy and often after several days of tracking the lion is finally cornered or treed. The number of lions in this section has rapidly increased of late and domestic stock suffered to such an extent the "champeen" was called.

VAN NUYS—The reported discovery in Bell canyon at the west end of Vanowen street, near Chatsworth, of the wild pigeon, long since thought extinct in the United States, is creating a great deal of interest among naturalists and those interested in the preservation of wild game. The report has been made that the birds are in the canyon by the thousands or have been there recently. This will mean nothing to the nimrods interested only in hunting them, as the pigeons are protected under the fish and game laws, a fine of $5000 being provided in cases where persons are convicted of having the birds either alive or dead in their possession.

CALEXICO—Three buildings have been condemned and certain other structures, including six hotels, must be practically reconstructed as a result of earthquakes that visited this city, according to a complete survey of earthquake damage in this city, submitted to the city trustees by Edward L. Mayberry, Los Angeles contractor, who was employed by the city as reconstruction expert. Mayberry's statement recites in detail the damage caused by the series of shocks and indicates that not a single building in the downtown district survived without injury. The structures whose brick walls must be torn down and replaced include two high school buildings, the city jail, city fire hall, Virginia hotel, Melbourne hotel, Calceico hotel, Los Angeles hotel, Monterey hotel, La Popular hotel, Chinese American Mercantile building, Fred Baum building and the Higuera building.

SAN BERNARDINO—Apportionment of school funds among elementary and high school districts of San Bernardino county from a total of $701,527.77 available from county and district taxes for the first half of the 1926-1927 year, is announced by Miss Ida M. Collins, county superintendent of schools.

HIGHER SALARY IS SOUGHT FOR SCHOOL HEADS

Included among legislative recommendations of the California school superintendents' legislative committee are two amendments to the political code, one providing that no school superintendent shall engage in any business or vocation that prevents him from performing his official duties and another prohibiting keeping children, under eight years of age, in school more than four hours.

According to J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools, the first measure is intended to bring about legislation that will force certain counties and districts to pay their school superintendents salaries that are commensurate with professional training and the duties of the office. Because of the meager compensation allowed certain county and district superintendents, in some instances considerable less than paid high school teachers, such executives have been compelled to take outside jobs or to teach summer school, it was explained.

The recommendation of the superintendents' committee makes one exception in the first measure—that any superintendent who receives an annual salary of $2400, or less, may teach full time in the public schools. With the public school taking over more and more the training formerly given in the home, it is essential that more than four hours be given to the various phases of school work, Cranston explained. A reasonable increase of school hours in the lower grades will be necessary to meet the request for "released time" for religious instruction, if such a proposal is enacted into law.

EVENING SALUTATION

For every harmony and discord give
Their little note to swell the mighty song
That flows through ether while the world shall live;
But is the note of triumph or of wrong?
And if the chord of every soul must rise,
Be mine no coward cry to pierce the skies!

THE NAME MUST FIT

Those who are arranging for a sight-seeing motor tour of Orange county realize that there is a great deal in a name.

Back in Philadelphia, where the 150th anniversary of independence was celebrated, the selection of a name is credited with being one of the minor reasons why the celebration failed. It was called the Sesqui-Centennial. The name didn't catch hold.

Because of the importance of a name as an advertising factor, attention is directed to the contest that is being held for naming the Orange county tour. Anyone who desires to do so can submit a name or names. A name that is strikingly appropriate is wanted. In fact, it must be had.

Orange county has a variety of scenery to exhibit. Truly, those who come from the east to see California will see more California by seeing Orange county than they can by seeing any other section of the state. Ocean, beach, bay, foothills, fields, orchards, panoramas—all are here. Five minutes on Lemon Heights will furnish inspiration for any number of letters to the folks back home.

A GIRL'S $100 AND FAITH

Of all the amazing facts laid bare in the government suit against former Ford stockholders, none makes a wider public appeal than the story of Miss Couzens' $100 investment.

When James Couzens, now United States senator, invested his own small savings in Henry Ford's new motor enterprise back in 1903, and had difficulty in getting together the few hundreds needed, he went to his sister, now Mrs. Rosetta V. Hauss. She had saved $100, and was willing to lend it to Brother James, not because she knew or cared anything about Henry Ford and his crazy inventions, but because she liked her brother and believed in him.

That little hundred went into the Ford pot and James saw that it participated duly in the Ford earnings. So it came about that in the next 10 years, Rosetta received $47,000 in dividends from the Ford Motor company. Then when it was recapitalized in 1915, she was given $50,000 in new stock for her holding. In the next four years, until Henry Ford bought out the minority stockholders, that stock grew to $260,000, while paying her dividends of $460,000. Her original investment of $100 had brought her three-quarters of a million in 16 years.

This is just a little story that is interesting because people and money are interesting. If there is any moral to it, perhaps it is that sisters should have faith in their brothers. And that may not be a safe doctrine to preach, because brothers, with the best intentions in the world, have been known to lose their sisters' money. Ordinarily faith without loans is safer. But what a glorious vindication this was of sisterly confidence!

BRINGING HISTORY TO LIFE

Another building has been added to the group of historical edifices at Sudbury, Mass., where Henry Ford is re-creating an early American community. This latest acquisition is the old school house once attended by the Mary whose little lamb followed her to school one day with such enlivening results.

The building was brought to Sudbury from Sterling. Some of the original stones of the foundation have been used. The interior has been reconstructed, following the original as closely as possible. It is to be used as a school, with a good teacher, up-to-date curriculum and pupils from the neighborhood. It is at the same time a happy preservation of a typical New England school house of the early days.

The Sudbury community is gradually becoming a most charming museum of early Americana. Instead of collecting antiques, constructing models and reproductions to be put in some city museum, Mr. Ford is making his "museum" a living thing, placed in the natural setting of the Massachusetts countryside. The Wayside Inn, beautifully restored, filled with authentic antiques, rich in historical suggestion, is a delight to every patriot who visits it. The caretakers and guides there are more intelligent, interested, well-informed than in many of the other historical shrines of New England.

It would be a fine thing if similar restorations could be made in other parts of the country. America has grown and prospered so fast that it has thrust aside and lost forever a good many things worthy of preservation.

WHAT ARE CITY'S BEAUTIES?

The state Federation of Women's Clubs in New York has offered prizes to the best ten lists sent in answer to the question, "What do you think are the 10 most beautiful things in Greater New York?" The awards are to go to five high school pupils and five adults. The subjects eligible as "beautiful things" cover a wide range from such tangible articles as statues, paintings, stained glass windows, bridges and buildings, to a beautiful view from a given point.

Citizens in any community might well ask themselves what are the most beautiful things in their locality. What are the ten most beautiful things in Santa Ana? Tustin? Orange?

If the inquiry stimulated interest in beautiful things, keener observation of surroundings, better knowledge of the true treasures of the city, it would be valuable. If the inquiry worked, in the long run, against ugliness in cities, a great deal of good would result.

THE CAT, A HEROINE

The cat has come into her own at last. For many years cat lovers have had to stand by idly and gnash their teeth in impotent rage while dog lovers told how devoted dogs saved the lives of their masters by giving the alarm when the house caught fire.

The cat fan, or addict, had no comeback. There is a story in the paper nearly every day about some dog or other repeating the copyrighted canine stunt and saving the lives of his master's family. The dog lovers point to these and jeer: "What cat ever did anything like that?"

Well, it has happened. From some city in the east—the name escapes us, for the moment—comes a duly accredited story telling how a house cat, awakened in the small hours by smoke, set up a yowling and caterwauling that aroused the five human inmates of the house and enabled them to escape with their lives.

Tack that in your hats, cat lovers; and the next time a dog owner makes disparaging remarks about your favorite pet—spring this on him.

The Governor's Budget

San Bernardino Sun

For the first time in the history of the state we are to have an honest budget. Governor C. C. Young is listing items that total $185,000,000 as the expense of government in California during the next biennium beginning on July 1.

Hitherto only a portion of the state's expense was listed in the governor's budget, and the idea of the budget seemed to be more for the purpose of making comparisons with what other governors did than to convey to the people an adequate picture of state expense. The latter purpose is far more important than the former, for budget figures and state expense figures have been juggled about, in years past, until it took a certified public accountant to determine just what the increase in state expense has been.

Governor Young is listing all of the expenses of the state, regardless of whether the governor himself has the remotest connection with the expense. If this policy is continued in the future it will serve the double purpose of informing the people how much money is being actually spent and how great the increase is from biennium to biennium.

The figures presented by Governor Young are admittedly higher than in the present biennium. The cost of the state, as listed by Governor Young, was $180,000,000 in 1925-27, according to the governor's figures; and $140,000,000 in 1923-25. This would make an increase of eight per cent for 1927-29 over 1925-27, as compared with 20 per cent for 1925-27 over 1923-25.

Expenses in government everywhere continue to mount, and the taxpayer is becoming anxious as to what is to be the answer. There is one hopeful sign in the refusal of many taxpayers to join in requests for new projects, for they have begun to realize that new ideas mean expense and that the operations of government as they now exist have come to stay.

There is a growing interest in such matters as budgets. Taxpayers are asking for detailed information as to where public money is being expended. Perhaps out of this information will come suggestions for the curtailment of some of the existing expenses, although it is hard to visualize governmental activities that would not have at least a large minority ready to defend their necessity.

Young Mr. Young

San Diego Union

Young George Young, at the age of 17 years, confronts the abrupt change from poverty to the comparative affluence of a $25,000 bank account. In addition to the $25,000 won by his 15-hour conquest of the Catalina channel, other rewards of every sort will pour in upon him. More money, fame, notoriety, opportunity, friends, admirers, publicity and then more publicity, are to be his. He will need the courage, endurance and single-mindedness of his channel swim—and he will need more than that—if he is to continue to play the man.

Fame is a fickle jade, and her cast-off darlings are to be found in the back alleys of every great city. Their situation now furnishes a text for the moralizer and preacher, but for George Young the experiences of fame's favorites have a very practical bearing.

The annals of the prize-rings are littered with the names of men who fought one great fight and then lost the totem pole. Wall Street can name dozens of men who figured in one conspicuous coup, rode the crest of one bright period of success—and who are now peddling papers or washing dishes for a living. These men once did one thing supremely well. Most of them failed because one big success too completely satisfied them. They sought fame. They won fame. But they flopped when they tried to settle down and live with the lady.

Young Mr. Young must now determine whether 17 years and $25,000 shall mark the climax, or only the beginning, of his career.

FIRST AID TO MONOXIDE VICTIM

For some years it has been known that it is exceedingly dangerous to remain in a closed garage near the exhaust of a motor car when the engine is running.

The exhaust gas contains large amounts of dangerous poison called carbon monoxide gas. Illuminating gas also contains a considerable amount of this substance. The gas is invisible and has no odor, at least not sufficient to constitute a warning.

Indeed, some doctors have stated that a sufficient amount of this gas is released from the exhaust pipes of motor cars, and particularly large trucks and buses running in our streets, to cause serious symptoms in the people who are constantly exposed to the inhaling of such gases.

The garage doors should always be kept open and the motorist should never lie under the car indoors when the motor is running.

If a person is found unconscious in a closed garage or lying underneath a car under circumstances which indicate that he has succumbed to the carbon monoxide poisoning, he should be removed immediately from the poisoned atmosphere.

A physician should be called at once. Fresh air and mild stimulation should be provided immediately, since the emergency is one of life or death and every moment may be significant.

It is best not to wait for the coming of a pulmonary, lungmotor or any other artificial device for forcing breathing. Instead the person should be placed on his stomach with his face to one side so that his nose and mouth are free for breathing.

Then the one who is going to give first-aid should kneel over the person, straddling the thighs and facing the head. The palms of the hands may be placed on the loins or the muscles of the small of the back with the thumbs nearly touching and with the fingers spread toward the legs.

The person who is giving artificial respiration then raises the arms, swinging them forward slowly and then backward slowly. A complete breathing movement forced by this method will require about four seconds. The movements may be continued in time with the breathing of the one who is giving first-aid.

Just What Is Thrift

Frederic Republican

Thrift is not, of course, hoarding. Nor is it investing. On rare occasions it may even be spending. Usually it is saving.

Every day we are using at least one part of our possessions, that is, our time.

Every day we are using at least one part of our possessions, that is, our time.

For our time, we get various things, the mere means of existence, and the means also of satisfactions in that existence. We eat to live and we live to eat. We work to live, but we do not live to work, at least the most of us do not.

Thrift is an expression in terms of using today for the benefit of tomorrow as well as of today.

What we get today we make use of for tomorrow, and then another tomorrow and another. That is thrift.

The man or woman or child who is most thrifty is the one who understands his capacity to accumulate for the benefit of tomorrow.

Thrift is an equalization of enjoyment, or an attempt to do so, with special reference to the money and property basis of enjoyment. It recognizes that no matter what other things are necessary to a valued life, material worth must be present. Certain needs continue fairly well through life. But the means of supplying these needs do not continue. Thrift prepares for a needy tomorrow through the earning power of today.

Is your tomorrow worth anything to you? If so, prepare for tomorrow. Make part of that preparation a readiness to make today's money getting ability extend into tomorrow. That is thrift.

The Strong Man's Song

By Robert W. Service—Contributed to The Register by Wm. E. Otis

Did you tackle the trouble that came your way
With a resolute heart and cheerful?
Or hide your face from the light of day
With craven heart and fearful?
Oh, a trouble's a ton or a trouble's an ounce,
Ours a trouble is what you make it.
And it isn't the fact that you're hurt that counts,
But only how did you take it?
Your beaten to earth? Well, well, what's that?
Come up with a smiling face.
It's nothing against you to fall down flat,
But to lie there—that's disgrace.

Worth While Verse

I shot an arrow into the air,
It fell to earth I know not where;
For, so swiftly it flew, the sight
Could not follow it in its flight.

I breathed a song into the air,
It fell to earth I knew not where;
For who has sight so keen and strong
That it can follow the flight of song?

Long, long afterward, in an oak
I found the arrow, still unbroke;
And the song, from beginning to end,
I found again in the heart of a friend.
—Longfellow.

Little Benny's Note Book

After supper I was starting to think about doing my homework and pop was smoking and looking out the living room window, saying, Yee gods, there that infernal machine still down in the yard, didn't I give you 48 hours to get rid of that thing about 48 hours ago?

Meeting the baby carriage with 2 wheels on 2 off that I bawled from 2 little kids up an alley, and I said, No sir, that was only yesterday and you said 48 hours so it can't be 48 hours yet because there could be 48 hours yet.

Well, what's the most there could be of bin at this time of year? pop said, and I said, Twenty four, and he said, Then you have just 24 hours left to make your fortune with that ruin, so remember, jest 24 more hours and after that no excuses.

Me thinking, Gosh, G. And this afternoon I saw Sid Hunt bawling a golf ball, being a swell bouncer, and I said, Hay Sid, I'll swap you a baby carriage with 2 wheels for that, think of all the fun you can have with a baby carriage with 2 wheels, you can play shoot the shoots and everything.

G, I'd swap you all right, only I wouldn't be aloud to keep it, I tried to keep a old push cart with one wheel once and I was aloud to so I know I wouldn't be aloud to keep a 2 wheel baby carriage, Sid said.

Well G winnicks think of all the fun you could have with it, its broke already so it wouldn't matter what you did with it, I said, and he said, I know, but I couldn't keep it, I tell you, one time I tried to keep a old bicycle I found with no wheels on it, so how could I keep a 2 wheel baby carriage?

Well hay, I tell you, I'll swap you the two wheels for that golf ball, I said, and he said, G, all right, that's a go. And we went around to my back yard and I took the 2 wheels off and gave them to Sid and he gave me the golf ball and I put the rest of the baby carriage out in the alley, not even being 24 hours yet.

Proving necessity is the mother of invention.

Your Income Tax

This is one of a series of articles, based on the revenue act of 1926, written by the U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue.

No. 5

The revenue act of 1926 provides that if the status of a taxpayer changes during the year his personal exemption shall be determined by apportionment, in accordance with the number of months the taxpayer was single, married, or the head of a family. The act of 1924 contained a similar provision.

For example, a couple married on July 31, 1926, and living together on December 31, 1926, may file a joint return and claim an exemption of $308.33. That is, seven-twelfths of $1,500 for the husband while single, or $375, plus seven-twelfths of $1,500 for the wife while single, plus five-twelfths of $350, or $145.83, for the period during which they were married. If separate returns are made husband and wife may each claim a personal exemption of $180.17. The husband is entitled to seven-twelfths of $1,500, or $375, for the period during which he was single, and one-half of five-twelfths of $350, or $72.92, for the period during which he was married. The wife is entitled to similar exemptions. In case separate returns are filed, the joint exemption of $145.83 for the period during which they were married may be taken either by husband or wife, or divided between them.

A person who, on July 31, ceased being the head of a family—the support in one household of a relative or relatives being discontinued—is entitled to an exemption of $266.67, which is seven-twelfths of $350, plus five-twelfths of $1,500. With regard to the $400 credit for each dependent, the taxpayer's status as of the last day of the taxable year determines this credit. If, during the year, his support of such dependent ceased, he is not entitled to this credit.

INCOME TAX IN A NUTSHELL

WHO? Single persons who had net income of $1,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $3,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns. WHEN? The filing period ends March 15, 1927. WHERE? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business. HOW? Instructions on Forms 1040A and 1040; also the law and regulations. WHAT? One and one-half per cent normal tax on the first $4,000 in excess of the personal exemptions and credits. Three per cent normal tax on the next $4,000. Five per cent normal tax on the balance of net income. Surplus on net income in excess of $10,000.

—is entitled to an exemption of $266.67, which is seven-twelfths of $350, plus five-twelfths of $1,500. With regard to the $400 credit for each dependent, the taxpayer's status as of the last day of the taxable year determines this credit. If, during the year, his support of such dependent ceased, he is not entitled to this credit.

The Patchwork Quilt

BY ELEANOR YOUNG ELLIOTT
(Have you any patches to add to it?)

ONE PASSING DAY

There was a royal sunrise in the east;
A field of gray all shot with crimson fire;
And black outlined, a single cypress tree
Worshipping, to heaven did aspire.
Then as the day advanced, the clouds fell low
To wrap in mist the mountains and the plain
And swift, a magic tapestry was stitched
By little silver needles of the rain.
Nightfall drew on apace while in the west
The clouded sun diffused an amber ray
And eucalyptus trees against the sky
Waved God-speed to the sweet departing day.

CHRONICLES OF THE LITTLE GRAY HOUSE

From the Little Gray House with its valiant bodyguard of Green Orange Tree and Shaggy Plum Tree, (with the jolly little Christmas Tree bringing up the rear) it was a far cry to the cypress and eucalyptus lined terraces leading to the home of Carrie Jacobs Bond, one of California's most noted women, and probably the most loved song writer of our day.

Yes, the home of Carrie Jacobs Bond, rising on a Hollywood hill to peer through the lacey branches of the surrounding trees down into the plain of Los Angeles, unrolled below it like a map, is somewhat different, I'll confess, but the Little Gray House need not be jealous, it is "A poor thing but all mine own" and I love it. Just the same it was pleasant to be given the opportunity of going for Mrs. Bond and seeing her charming home and accompanying her to Santa Ana where she was honored guest of the two chambers of commerce at their annual Home Products dinner.

There is no use in telling you much about her talk. All the men of the city heard her for themselves. And they told their wives, so everyone has heard it all. But did they tell about the delightful little throaty chuckle with which she punctuated her talk? It is the most mirthful little sound imaginable and comes at such unexpected intervals that it injects a quality into her talk that demands close attention no less than the pertinent thing she says.

As for her conversation, it is quite as interesting as her public talks and is compounded of books—she is especially fond of Dickens and Thackeray—funny little anecdotes about the great and the near great, including her negro cook about whom she tells the most amusing stories, reproducing the rich darkey dialect to perfection, but always returns in the end, to her beloved son. She is the mother before she is anything else in the world, which is probably why her songs have such an appeal to the heart.

A CLEAR VISION

Beautiful mountains of piled up snow
Beautiful rivers in valleys below
Beautiful trees on beautiful hills
Nature so wonderful—nature that thrills.

Many there are who see rain but not dew
Many there are who see great but not small
But few are the chosen—the ones who see all.

Dear Patcher Lady!

What with the Register wandering away off into the fastnesses of the Ohio hills, and bringing back certain poetic echoes, we seem to have stirred up quite a tempest in the teapot—or, more accurately speaking, a lot of curiosity under the quilt covers anent the nativity of your humble servant.

Nemo imbuend interpretation of my identity with all the Kentucky atmosphere—"rather wet, too; just fancy my being 'full of corn,'

But now I feel vindicated by this Buckeye doctor. (Not so long ago here in Southern California we had a "peasop and alfalfa doctor.") Anyway, this Dr. Brown could sense my proper niche in the Hall of Fame, he just knew I came from Ohio, and then referred to the great military heads that Ohio had given the Union.

And now, Miss Nemo Incognito, (that sounds like a Wop name—hope you're not), just look where I'm sitting on top of the world! Ohio is the Mother of Presidents, too! And may I call on you to get your vote?

UP THE MUSKINGUM

Far, far away, up the "quiet Muskingum,"
Just over the crest of the hill,
Stands the dearest old cabin in all of God's kingdom,
I fondly remember it still.

In fancy I stand at the bars in the gloaming,
When the sun's sinking low in the west;
I can hear the bells tinkle and see the cows coming—
Old Brindle and Cherry and Bees.

In my dreaming I pass by the barn, where the swallows
Used to chatter so soothingly away;
And leisurely stroll down the lane to the hollows
Where someone and I used to meet!

No more the bells tinkle—I hear not their humming;
The birds have deserted their nests;
Yet someone is waiting, I know, for my coming,
Somewhere in the "Valley of Rest."

And then run right away."

Than his, this many a day.

Mexico and Mexicans

Two-thirds of the people of Mexico can neither read nor write. The City of Mexico covers an area about twice that of Washington, D. C.

Less than one-fifth of the population of Mexico is white, the remainder being Indians and half-breeds.

The army of Mexico is made up almost entirely of Indians and those of mixed blood, with a sprinkling of white officers.

In Mexico City it is usually possible to tell the general location of a street by the character of its name. Thus, in one section of the city all streets bear the names of trees or flowers. In another section the names of popular heroes, and so on.

The border line between the United States and Mexico is about 1,200 miles in length, with about 400 miles of it a purely imaginary line. That part of the boundary line defined by the banks of the Rio Grande is well marked throughout its entire length.

Prior to the war between Mexico and the United States the two countries covered approximately equal areas of North America, but as a result of that war nearly a million square miles of territory were transferred from the former country to the latter. Even now, however, Mexico covers an area as big as the aggregate—in pre-war days—of Germany, Austria, Hungary, France and Great Britain and Ireland.
